Only 2 More Primary Polls On Schedule

California, Dakota Votes May Not Tell Democratic Nominee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Primaries in California and South Dakota will wind up pre-convention balloting next Tuesday, but will offer little indication of the trend of the November presidential race.

The voting will be for delegate slates already substantially pledged, rather than for individual aspirants for the office.

Whether the outcome of a dozen primaries in which presidential hopefuls participated will make any decisive imprint on the two nominating conventions remains to be tested.

Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts captured strong support for the Democratic nomination by sweeping the primaries in which he was entered.

But Kennedy's rivals, who ignored the primaries, say those results proved only that the Massachusetts senator was favored by the voters in that limited number of states that were opponents they said never were given a chance to win the prize. Where Kennedy faced opposition, most of it came from Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota and Wayne Morse of Oregon.

Senate Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri and supporters of Adlai E. Stevenson dismiss Kennedy's Oregon primary victory over them as the expected outcome in a state where he campaigned but they did not.

On the Republican side, Vice President Richard M. Nixon demonstrated that he is a strong vote getter. In a few of the primaries, as an unopposed candidate, he got more votes than President Eisenhower did in 1956.

Nixon has made it clear he doesn't think his delegate slate will pile up as many votes among California Republicans Tuesday as Democrats will chalk up for a slate pledged to Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown as a favorite son.

South Dakota will choose on the same day a Democratic slate which has been released but which still is nominally pledged to Humphrey, despite his withdrawal from the nomination contest.

Judge Finds Communists End Marriage

LONDON (AP) — "This marriage," said Divorce Court Judge John Flowers, "began to go on the rocks when the wife became obsessed with communism."

Before him was Sheila Bellinger, 33, tall, brunette and pretty. The judge said Mrs. Bellinger often stayed out until 2 and 3 o'clock in the morning—talking politics.

"But they may also have discussed free love," he added.

Mrs. Bellinger's husband, Stanley Bellinger, 43, said that she admitted to him that since joining the Communist party in 1957, she had been unfaithful several times.

The judge commented that he believed the husband did no such thing.

The judge said Mrs. Bellinger had been married 12 years when she became friendly with the secretary of the Finsbury Park Communist party and his wife.

"From that time on she was largely under their influence," he said.

At the end of the case—which was heard Tuesday—the judge gave the husband a divorce.

HERLECH, Wales (AP) — U.S. champion Barbara McIntire of Lake Park, Fla., defeated Anne Quast of Marysville, Wash., 4 and 3, today and went into the final of the British Women's Amateur Golf Tournament against Ireland's Philomena Garvey.

Miss Garvey foiled an all-American final by upsetting Joanne Gundersen of Kirkland, Wash., 3 and 2.

At the end of the case—which was heard Tuesday—the judge gave the husband a divorce.

U2 Weather Flights Detailed

Space Agency Aide Says 200 Trips Made

WASHINGTON (AP) — A spokesman for the nation's space agency testified today that high-flying U2 planes have made more than 200 weather flights covering about 264,000 miles since 1956.

He said his agency did not know just where the planes flew until "after the fact."

"These flights have been conducted in the United States, west Europe, Turkey and Japan," Hugh L. Dryden, deputy administrator for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, said.

Dryden, in testimony to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, pictured the missions as information-gathering for research work—not spying.

He explained that NASA, in doing its job of research on improving aircraft development and operations, arranges to put instruments on planes, military and commercial. He said it has "cooperated with foreign governments and airlines by lending instrumentation."

"Now the pattern of operation with the commercial airlines and with the military has been the same throughout," Dryden continued.

"We meet with the owners and operators of the airplanes, whether an airline or the military service, come to an agreement with them that our instruments can be installed on their airplanes."

"We have no detailed knowledge of the flight plans until after the fact."

"Observations extend throughout the world. At the present time we have instruments on Pan American and TWA jets which, of course, go around the world."

The committee is inquiring into the downing of the spy plane two weeks before collapse of the Paris summit meeting and a series of conflicting U.S. government statements.

Ohio Turnpike Cowboy's Ride Is Explained

FREMONT, Ohio (AP) — Now comes an explanation for the fellow in cowboy regalia who rode a horse the wrong way on the Ohio Turnpike near here Sunday morning.

James F. Wilson of Clyde, a filling station attendant at the Erie Islands Plaza, thought it made no sense at all when the man on horseback rode up and asked for gasoline. Then the cowboy rode off to the east in the westbound half of the toll road, carrying a can containing 74 cents worth of gas.

But it wouldn't make much sense either to hike two miles in cowboy boots if you had a couple of horses in a trailer hitched to your station wagon. And that was the case.

The station wagon pulled into the filling station not long after the horsemen had left, and the cowboys were up front and the horses were riding behind. The men explained they were from Canton, Ohio and on their way to a rodeo in Michigan.

Had a turnpike patrolman spotted the cowboy rider, the can of gas would have cost a minimum $50 fine, plus costs, turnpike officials said.

Congress Expense Accounts Said Mysteriously Altered

Washington (AP) — Dozens of expense account bills of House members have been altered or amended in recent years, the Knight newspapers said today.

In a copyrighted dispatch, reporters Don Oberdorfer and Walter Pincus said House records show that "congressmen spent tax dollars on trips to resort areas, on night clubbing and tipping aboard luxury liners."

The receipts supporting the expense account claims then were altered in some instances, the story said, to show different purposes for the expenditures.

It said "expense accounts of only a few members of the House are involved in the unusual expense bills. In those checked while the records were still public, alterations or amendments appeared on hotel bills of more than 20 present or former congressmen."

The story said the records in the House disbursing office "had long been public documents open to public inspection."

"House officials threw a secrecy cloak around the (records) after learning of press interest a few days ago. The door to the fund record room was locked and all access to the public sealed off."

The story said the practices "are concentrated in the expense accounts of House investigating committees — the very groups which have been busy scrutinizing everybody else. But nobody investigates the investigators."

It cited as an example bills of the Royal Hawaiian Hotel in Honolulu to Rep. Owen Harris (D-Ark.), in which the word food in parentheses was written in after separate charges marked "bar."

Harris is chairman of the Legislative Oversight subcommittee which recently investigated payola practices in the disc jockey business.

The story quoted Harris as commenting he does not have "the slightest idea" who made the food notations after the bar charges on the hotel bill.

"I don't approve of bar payments (being charged to the government). I have never knowingly approved a bar charge," Harris said.

The story said Rep. Omar Burleson (D-Tex) has "ultimate responsibility" for expense account supervision as chairman of the Committee on House Administration.

It said Burleson commented he was not aware of defaced hotel bills or bar bills and said "there have been a lot of loose practices. Such charges are certainly not proper."

Court Decision Fails To End Oil Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) — The question of submerged oil lands in the Gulf of Mexico, which has bedeviled the federal government and Gulf states for 20 years, appeared far from settled today despite a new Supreme Court decision Tuesday.

There almost certainly will be more years of litigation and perhaps further legislation by Congress.

What the court decided was the seaward distance in which each state could claim the mineral rights.

It decided that Texas and Florida boundaries extend three marine leagues from the ordinary low water mark, or about 10 1/2 miles. But the boundaries of Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama extend only three geographic, or nautical, miles, or about 3.45 land miles.

The decision was greeted with joy by Texas and Florida officials. Texas has some leased oil areas in the Gulf. No oil has been discovered yet off Florida but test drillings are being made.

Congressmen and state officials of the other three states used such words as "incredible," "fantastic" and "discriminatory."

They pledged to ask the court to reconsider the case, and congressmen talked of new legislation next year to upset the decision.

The courts still must decide just how the newly defined areas are to be measured.

Foreign Ministers To Evaluate Future

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Western Big Three strategy meeting was arranged for late today following the second secret session of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization.

Secretary of State Christian A. Herter invited Britain's Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville to the private meeting.

The Western foreign affairs chiefs were expected to conduct a private post mortem on the summit conference collapse and scan the future for what the Communist might do over the next few months.

They are here for sessions of the SEATO Council of Ministers, which includes also the prime ministers of Australia and New Zealand and the foreign ministers of the Philippines, Thailand and Pakistan.

Both Lloyd and Herter were to address the council, completing a round of speechmaking, before the delegates got down to more concrete details in the four-day session.

Tuesday's speakers were said to have agreed in blaming Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev for the summit blowup. They spoke about the danger of a Red Chinese push now in places under SEATO's defense umbrella, such as the tiny kingdom of Laos in Southeast Asia.

The delegates were reported in accord that the Communist threat must not be fought by defense alone, but also through measures to improve the lives of the impoverished millions who comprise most of Asia's population.

The Philippines, Thailand and Pakistan were said to be interested in more economic help from the others. But Western officials gave no evidence of proposing a big stepup in aid.

Orient Youth Drowns Near Portsmouth

Steven Lawhorn, 9, Route 1, Orient, drowned yesterday while swimming in a creek near McDermott in Scioto County.

The victim was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lawhorn who were visiting in the home of Lewis Friend, a relative who lives at Lucasville near Portsmouth.

Sherrill's deputies in Scioto County said young Lawhorn had been swimming in rain-swollen Brush Creek which flows into the Scioto River. They said two youthful companions escaped.

A skin diver was called to assist firemen in their attempt to recover the body.

Holiday Traffic Toll Reaches 367

CHICAGO (AP) — A final tally shows that 367 persons were killed in traffic accidents over the three-day Memorial Day holiday.

The record for a three-day Memorial Day period is 371, set in 1958. The fatalities also fell short of a pre-holiday estimate of 375 made by the National Safety Council.

The over-all toll of 579 deaths, including traffic and those resulting from boating, drowning and miscellaneous accidents far surpassed the previous three-day Memorial weekend record of 504 set in 1947.

Ohio Traffic Toll Jolts Safety Aide

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — "You couldn't find a single Ohioan who would brag about stealing a dollar."

"Yet at the same time, in the locker room of a country club, at the shop, in the business office, or at the dinner table in front of the kids, there seems to be no hesitation about bringing up how he violated a traffic regulation and got away with it."

Shaken by reports of 28 traffic deaths during the 78-hour holiday period in Ohio, Highway Safety Director J. Grant Keys made this statement while talking about a hard-hitting program which might reduce the traffic slaughter Ohio experienced this last weekend.

Keys said the Department of Highway Safety wants to recommend to the Legislature that licensing laws be tightened, so that it's tougher to get and keep a driver's license. What's more, there should be periodic re-examinations for those holding licenses, Keys added.

He said that between 2 and 2 1/2 million of Ohio's 5,100,000 drivers have never had any examination because they obtained their licenses before the present examination law went into effect in 1935. "We don't know if they know the state's traffic laws, if they're well enough to drive, or anything about them," he remarked.

Keys said the program his department is preparing is so broad in scope that "I can't tell you if it will be ready for this session of the Legislature (1961) or the next."

But Keys said that such a program can't succeed "until the people of Ohio get sick of traffic deaths and stop giving social approval to violations of traffic regulations."

Keys said the fact that Ohio is a bridge state through which travelers drive to reach other states contributes to the problem. But he noted that most of those killed in Ohio traffic over the weekend were Ohioans. "Even the six servicemen killed in one accident were Ohioans by military assignment (Clinton County Air Force Base) near Wilmington," he said.

Keys blamed excessive speed and driving left of center as the main causes of the weekend's carnage.

He spoke out against people who thought law enforcement officials aren't doing enough. Almost angrily, he said:

"I rise to the defense of every enforcement officer in Ohio. They

South African Premier Still Presses Policy

BLOEMFONTEIN, South Africa (AP) — Prime Minister Hendrick F. Verwoerd Tuesday made his first speech since an assassin put two bullets in his head April 9, and quickly made clear he has not modified his racial segregation policies.

Speaking at a celebration of the 50th anniversary of the formation of the Union of South Africa, the champion of the apartheid predicted the white man will remain "the guardian of the black man" in South Africa.

Warning against a "black dictatorship," Verwoerd said a prosperous future can only be attained if two conditions are met.

"The first is that white South Africa must continue to rule. The second is that we as whites must be prepared to work and work hard," he said.

The Prime Minister called for a "union of hearts" between citizens of English and Dutch blood.

Verwoerd held aloft a dove and said he was sending it "out into space as a symbol of the peace and prosperity which we wish all peoples on earth."

The bird refused to fly and dropped to the ground. Despite coaxing, it refused to budge and was finally carried away.

Elsewhere in South Africa demonstrations flared against Verwoerd's apartheid policy.

Thousands of people of all races marched through Cape Town's streets. In Durban, a statue of Gen. Louis Botha, South Africa's first Prime Minister, was covered with posters saying "Fifty Years of Oppression."

Acting Chief Is under Fire

Investigation Bares Many Indictments

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — The specter of counterrevolution haunts the new government of South Korea.

So far there is no actual evidence of an organized plot to overthrow Acting President Huh Chung.

But there are strange stirrings. They probably were partly responsible for ex-President Syngman Rhee's sudden flight to Honolulu Sunday.

In the talk of antirevolution and counterrevolution, elements most commonly mentioned are: Rhee's now-discredited Liberal party; ex-Premier Lee Bum Suk's fascist-like "Blue Shirt" movement, now resurgent and renamed the National Independence League; a new reputedly leftist group, the Young Guardians of the Republic; some wealthy conservatives and perhaps some military figures.

The key to the situation is the provisional government's investigation into the rigging of the March 15 presidential election which triggered the April students' revolt that toppled Rhee.

So far the investigation has jailed nine members of Rhee's last 11-man cabinet, a minister from a previous cabinet, two former presidents of the Korean Reconstruction Bank, one Bank of Korea governor and a vice governor, two former national police directors, the chief of the presidential palace police, the 13 members of the election planning committee, two former provincial governors, a former mayor of Seoul and Rhee's personal bodyguard.

The probe also prompted the resignation of Lt. Gen. Song Yohan, the army chief of staff, who took responsibility for the army's part in the fraudulent voting. Two other top military commanders also have resigned.

The investigation is biting much deeper into Korea's former rulers than seemed likely when the probe began. Undoubtedly it is causing those who feel they might be next to seek some way of eliminating the danger.

Rhee's name, before his departure, popped up repeatedly as a possible rallying point for those apprehensive of the investigation trend. At least one high-ranking army officer, a former premier, numerous Liberal party members and even some students conferred with the old man after he retired to private life.

Both the ultra rightist National Independence League and the leftist Young Guardians would like to see Huh's reform regime ousted and new elections called immediately, without waiting for passage of a new constitutional amendment setting up a premier-cabinet form of government responsible to the National Assembly.

On the question of how Americans handle their personal crises, the report says:

"Many do nothing, or forget about it; permit the situation to run its course. Those who try to cope with their troubles on their own often turn to their spouses, other members of their families, or friends."

"Another sizable group prays. Sixteen per cent as a means of handling their daily worries, and even more—a third—pray when faced with a critical unhappy period in their lives."

"Rarely did they put their faith in bartenders, taxi drivers, fortune tellers, or other supposedly popular, but unorthodox confidants."

Stevenson Outlines 5-Point 'Grand Strategy for Peace'

CHICAGO (AP) — Adlai E. Stevenson today outlined a five-point "grand strategy for peace."

He urged the United States to adopt such a program to "recover the initiative in the cold war" and "restore confidence in American leadership."

The 1952-1956 Democratic presidential nominee submitted a plan looking toward general and complete disarmament under international control in a speech prepared for the convention of the Textile Workers Union—an organization that has endorsed Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts for the 1960 Democratic presidential nomination.

Stevenson also resumed his attack on the Eisenhower administration in the wake of the collapse of the summit conference.

"The effectiveness for leadership of the present administration in Washington has been impaired if not destroyed," he said.

Stevenson proposed that the

1. Build up "deterrent power and a limited war capability with our NATO allies that does not depend on the budget bureaucrats."

2. Strengthen the Western alliance by "building a stronger political and economic community in WASHINGTON (AP) — Primaries in California and South Dakota will wind up pre-convention balloting next Tuesday, but will offer little indication of the trend of the November presidential race.

The voting will be for delegate slates already substantially pledged, rather than for individual aspirants for the office.

Whether the outcome of a dozen primaries in which presidential hopefuls participated will make any decisive imprint on the two nominating conventions remains to be tested.

The Western foreign affairs chiefs were expected to conduct a private post mortem on the summit conference collapse and scan the future for what the Communist might do over the next few months.

They are here for sessions of the SEATO Council of Ministers, which includes also the prime ministers of Australia and New Zealand and the foreign ministers of the Philippines, Thailand and Pakistan.

Both Lloyd and Herter were to address the council, completing a round of speechmaking, before the delegates got down to more concrete details in the four-day session.

Tuesday's speakers were said to have agreed in blaming Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev for the summit blowup. They spoke about the danger of a Red Chinese push now in places under SEATO's defense umbrella, such as the tiny kingdom of Laos in Southeast Asia.

The delegates were reported in accord that the Communist threat must not be fought by defense alone, but also through measures to improve the lives of the impoverished millions who comprise most of Asia's population.

The Philippines, Thailand and Pakistan were said to be interested in more economic help from the others. But Western officials gave no evidence of proposing a big stepup in aid.

Orient Youth Drowns Near Portsmouth

Steven Lawhorn, 9, Route 1, Orient, drowned yesterday while swimming in a creek near McDermott in Scioto County.

The victim was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lawhorn who were visiting in the home of Lewis Friend, a relative who lives at Lucasville near Portsmouth.

Sheriff's deputies in Scioto County said young Lawhorn had been swimming in rain-swollen Brush Creek which flows into the Scioto River. They said two youthful companions escaped.

A skin diver was called to assist firemen in their attempt to recover the body.

YESTERDAY'S fatality was the second drowning of a Pickaway County youth within a week. Wayne Dugins, 13, Commercial Point, drowned in Big Darby Creek in Scioto Twp. May 14.

The Lawhorn death marked the first drowning in Scioto County for 1960.

Holiday Traffic Toll Reaches 367

CHICAGO (AP) — A final tally shows that 367 persons were killed in traffic accidents over the three-day Memorial Day holiday.

The record for a three-day Memorial Day period is 371, set in 1958. The fatalities also fell short of a pre-holiday estimate of 375 made by the National Safety Council.

The over-all toll of 579 deaths, including traffic and those resulting from boating, drowning and miscellaneous accidents far surpassed the previous three-day Memorial weekend record of 504 set in 1947.

Ohio Traffic Toll Jolts Safety Aide

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — "You couldn't find a single Ohioan who would brag about stealing a dollar."

"Yet at the same time, in the locker room of a country club, at the shop, in the business office, or at the dinner table in front of the kids, there seems to be no hesitation about bringing up how he violated a traffic regulation and got away with it."

Shaken by reports of 28 traffic deaths during the 78-hour holiday period in Ohio, Highway Safety Director J. Grant Keys made this statement while talking about a hard-hitting program which might reduce the traffic slaughter Ohio experienced this last weekend.

Keys said the Department of Highway Safety wants to recommend to the Legislature that licensing laws be tightened, so that it's tougher to get and keep a driver's license. What's more, there should be periodic re-examinations for those holding licenses, Keys added.

He said that between 2 and 2 1/2 million of Ohio's 5,100,000 drivers have never had any examination because they obtained their licenses before the present examination law went into effect in 1935. "We don't know if they know the state's traffic laws, if they're well enough to drive, or anything about them," he remarked.

Keys said the program his department is preparing is so broad in scope that "I can't tell you if it will be ready for this session of the Legislature (1961) or the next."

But Keys said that such a program can't succeed "until the people of Ohio get sick of traffic deaths and stop giving social approval to violations of traffic regulations."

Keys said the fact that Ohio is a bridge state through which travelers drive to reach other states contributes to the problem. But he noted that most of those killed in Ohio traffic over the weekend were Ohioans. "Even the six servicemen killed in one accident were Ohioans by military assignment (Clinton County Air Force Base) near Wilmington," he said.

Keys blamed excessive speed and driving left of center as the main causes of the weekend's carnage.

He spoke out against people who thought law enforcement officials aren't doing enough. Almost angrily, he said:

"I rise to the defense of every enforcement officer in Ohio. They gave up their weekend, worked in poor weather, literally risked their lives, took abuse from irate motorists, and yet they're being asked: 'Why didn't you do something about the weekend accident rate?'"

Gov. Michael V. DiSalle noted that all 17 of the 27 highway fatalities investigated by the State Highway Patrol involved traffic law violations.

These are among the basic findings of a nationwide mental health inventory of the average U.S. citizens, taken by the University of Michigan's Survey Research Center. The results were made public Tuesday night.

The report said only 17 percent of those surveyed said marriage alone made them happy, and only 14 percent credited their jobs.

Only four percent said they were unhappy (in 1957) because of world tensions and possibility of war.

The survey results are in a book, titled "Americans View Their Mental Health." It is the fourth book in a series supported by the Joint Commission on Mental Illness and Health.

The survey was based on 2,460 interviews.

One of the conclusions was that older people find fewer shortcomings in themselves than do younger people. Another was: "Younger people are more involved in achievement and older people are more involved in considerations of the moral and the good."

On the question of how Americans handle their personal crises, the report says:

"Many do nothing, or forget about it; permit the situation to run its course. Those who try to cope with their troubles on their own often turn to their spouses, other members of their families, or friends."

Another sizable group prays. Sixteen percent as a means of handling their daily worries, and even more—a third—pray when faced with a critical unhappy period in their lives.

"Rarely did they put their faith in bartenders, taxi drivers, fortune tellers, or other supposedly popular, but unorthodox confidants."

The 1952-1956 Democratic presidential nominee submitted a plan looking toward general and complete disarmament under international control in a speech prepared for the convention of the Textile Workers Union—an organization that has endorsed Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts for the 1960 Democratic presidential nomination.

Stevenson also resumed his attack on the Eisenhower administration in the wake of the collapse of the summit conference.

"The effectiveness for leadership of the present administration in Washington has been impaired if not destroyed," he said.

Stevenson proposed that the United States:

1. Build up "deterrent power and a limited war capability with our NATO allies that does not depend on the budget bureaucrats."
2. Strengthen the Western alliance by "building a stronger political and economic community in

Acting Chief Is under Fire

Investigation Bares Many Indictments

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—The specter of counterrevolution haunts the new government of South Korea.

So far there is no actual evidence of an organized plot to overthrow Acting President Hub Chung.

But there are strange stirrings. They probably were partly responsible for ex-President Syngman Rhee's sudden flight to Honolulu Sunday.

In the talk of antirevolution and counterrevolution, elements most commonly mentioned are: Rhee's now-discredited Liberal party; ex-Premier Lee Bum Suk's fascist-like "Blue Shirt" movement, now resurgent and renamed the National Independence League; a new reputedly leftist group, the Young Guardians of the Republic; some wealthy conservatives and perhaps some military figures.

The key to the situation is the provisional government's investigation into the rigging of the March 15 presidential election which triggered the April students' revolt that toppled Rhee.

So far the investigation has jailed nine members of Rhee's last 11-man cabinet, a minister from a previous cabinet, two former presidents of the Korean Reconstruction Bank, one Bank of Korea governor and a vice governor, two former national police directors, the chief of the presidential palace police, the 13 members of the election planning committee, two former provincial governors, a former mayor of Seoul and Rhee's personal bodyguard.

The probe also prompted the resignation of Lt. Gen. Song Yohan, the army chief of staff, who took responsibility for the army's part in the fraudulent voting. Two other top military commanders also have resigned.

The investigation is biting much deeper into Korea's former rulers than seemed likely when the probe began. Undoubtedly it is causing those who feel they might be next to seek some way of eliminating the danger.

Rhee's name, before his departure, popped up repeatedly as a possible rallying point for those apprehensive of the investigation trend. At least one high-ranking army officer, a former premier, numerous Liberal party members and even some students conferred with the old man after he retired to private life.

Both the ultra rightist National Independence League and the leftist Young Guardians would like to see Hub's reform regime ousted and new elections called immediately, without waiting for passage of a new constitutional amendment setting up a premier-cabinet form of government responsible to the National Assembly.

the free world," and setting up an Atlantic Council.

3. Join our allies in a long-range aid program for poor countries.

4. Make it plain that general and complete disarmament under international control is "an imperative for all of us."

5. Show the world that freedom works in the United States in meeting needs for schooling, research, health, housing and all forms of public services.

Stevenson, who has said he is not seeking the Democratic nomination but who has not ruled out a draft, opened his speech—his sixth in seven weeks—by calling the summit fiasco a defeat for the policies of both President Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

"The Stalinist faction in Russia has been strengthened," he said. "Red China and Russia have been thrust closer together. World tensions have been increased."

Stevenson proposed that the United States:

1. Build up "deterrent power and a limited war capability with our NATO allies that does not depend on the budget bureaucrats."

Elderly Man Said Robbed

Victim Claims $100 Is Taken from Him

John Crawford, 74, Columbus, told Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputies that he was attacked and robbed near Era yesterday.

Crawford said he was forced into a car and struck on the head by three youths who appeared to be 18 to 20 years old. He said his billfold containing about $100 was taken.

The elderly Columbus man told Deputy John Wolford he was walking toward Era when an old model gray car pulled up behind him. He said two men jumped out and forced him into the car. Crawford said the blow on the head knocked him unconscious. He said he woke up lying in some tall weeds and that the three men still were in the area.

THE victim said he heard one of the men say "shoot him." According to Crawford's story, one of the other men said "I think he is dead now."

Deputy Wolford said Crawford has been employed at a grocery store in Columbus for 13 years.

The private apartments in the White House for use of the President, his family and their guests, contain 34 rooms and 16 baths.

voted in 12 previous major presidential primaries, an increase of 259,471 over the number who went to the polls in the same states in 1956. But the total represented only about 13 per cent of the more than 61,600,000 persons who voted in the general election four years ago.

Republicans outvoted Democrats 4,124,569 to 3,836,184. But partisans couldn't read much into this because a sizable portion of the GOP total was piled up in Illinois and Pennsylvania, where Nixon was on the ballot but the Democratic presidential votes all were write-ins.

Burglary Loot Heavy at 2 Area Firms

Loot taken from a restaurant and service station south of Circleville this week was estimated at more than $600 by the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department today.

Burglarized Monday night were Thompson's Drive - In Restaurant and the Sam Althouse Service Station, located side by side on Route 23 about two miles south of here.

Deputy Sheriff Homer Adams said the restaurant was hardest hit. He said money and merchandise stolen amounted to about $600. About $15 in cash and articles were taken from the station.

Deputy Adams said the restaurant loot included five wrist watches, five transistor radios, a movie camera, a clock, several rings, earrings and cuff links, six purses, two belts, two belt buckles, three cigarette lighters, two shaving kits, two money clip cases, four safety chain wallets, three billfolds, one pair of men's gloves, five pairs of sun glasses, a watch strap, three keychain knives, a tooth brush and case and three cartons of cigarettes.

MONEY missing from the drive-in included $24.90 from a cigarette machine, $20 in a small fishing tackle box, $3 from counter boxes, $12 in nickels and pennies and four silver dollars.

Adams said loot at the station included $4.50 in Canadian money, 99 cents in pennies, 40 cents from a cigarette display case, two cartons of cigarettes and three screwdrivers.

Sheriff Charles H. Radcliff and Deputy Adams continued the investigation today. They said several other burglaries have been reported this week in southern Ohio.

Both lawmen spent considerable time today on the radio and telephone in an attempt to connect the burglaries here with the ones in other counties.

Adams said the two Route 23 firms were entered by forcing windows. He said blood found at the scene indicated that at least one burglar suffered a cut.

IT'S TIME to start garden hopping before too long. It's the best of all good sports — visiting gardens. I'm planning a day in Ashville. When I asked who had nice gardens there it turned out that just about everybody did. Among the more famous are those of Ed Irwin, Mrs. Walter Hedges, Georgia Hott, Bernice Hughes and Helen Hedges.

Mrs. Ward Robinson's lawn was beautifully green when I visited there not too long ago. The birch tree in front is a nice specimen. Mrs. Robinson has also used ivy to face down some of her shrubs. She says that her golden rain tree interests her the year round—winter too.

Jack - in - the pulpit is rare. But there they were blooming bravely in the little garden back of Mrs. Lloyd Jonnes' apartment.

Helen Hull, wild flower authority, does not frown on the practice of transplanting wild flowers to your own garden provided you make them happy with the proper soil and care. She feels that these little private gardens for wildlings will be last refuges for some of our fast departing flowers.

Besides the wild flowers in Mrs. Jonnes' yard there are other yards where wild flowers have found happiness. Mrs. Orion King, W. H. HST, has some choice wildlings, including a yellow lady slipper.

Donald McBeth, Kingston, has excellent truck transplanting wild flowers.

Floyd Bartley has numerous wild plants in his yard. In fact he has them by the hundred.

But unless you really have a place for them "no diggin'" is a good rule.

The wisteria at Dr. Edwin Shane's on Northridge Road has been very beautiful this spring.

GARDEN CLUB of Ohio's Garden Greetings this month gave directions for making perfume from rose petals. The little article said other perfumes could be made the same way.

To my way of thinking there is no perfume so subtly delicate as that of the wild crabapple.

In fact I made a special tour of Roy Waddington's line fence just to get a whiff of his wild crabapple. He has one tree that blooms beautifully each year. Sometimes crabapples grow in thickets but this tree of Waddington's is a single specimen.

At this time of year one wonders if it was the wisest thing in the world to change the foundation planting of spirea to evergreens. The spirea is very effective right now. And there's not too much left as foundation planting. At one time this was universally used.

The double flowering crab at the Emmitt Barnhart's on Northridge Road was indeed a handsome tree when it bloomed this last week.

Ed Ingram, near Laurelville, says his iris are out now and Mrs. Ingram called to say they were at their best. Ingrams live on Route 55 at Stringtown.

If you like to talk iris Ed Ingram is the best of all possible conversationalists when it comes to this particular subject.

Mrs. Fred Mowery, Kingston, planted tulips just before she left for Florida last winter. She says they have been very lovely. But in the Mowery garden new things are coming along such as columbine in all sorts of color.

Loring Hill's garden in Kingston has never been more beautiful than now with the iris in bloom. The Hills are planning a wedding the last of June and it's to be an outdoor affair.

Beauty bush is unusually full of bloom this year. Mrs. Fred Long in Kingston has a fine specimen.

Yes, there are red African violets. Mrs. Sam Lutz of New Holland has them. She's even sharing her red violets.

MRS. OSCAR ROOT, Pataskala, has some Harvest Giants. They are the exciting new chrysanthemums that are full of promise.

Mrs. Root said that the chrysanthemum sale which the Central, Ohio Chrysanthemum Society put on recently gave people all sorts of chances to purchase all sorts of chrysanthemums.

Robert Terbeek, well known chrysanthemum fancier in Columbus, had Japanese seedlings for sale.

Mrs. C. W. Hedges, Ashville community, says she always leaves one bulb when she lifts her magic lilies. That means she'll eventually have a new clump where she dug the old one.

Mrs. Hedges, who makes an arrangement for the Robtown church almost every Sunday, says that magic lilies are perfect for church flowers.

Mrs. Ed. Wilkins gave me a start of magic lilies. This year I had ever so many. "Aunt Laura", as everybody calls her, has given many a plant to a beginning gardener.

Mrs. Turney Pontius, Route 4, Circleville, had a maple branch blown down during the Friday storm. In no time flat the two Huffines boys who help her do garden chores had the branch cut up and out of the way.

Mrs. Pontius planted over 1,000 glad corms last week. When we asked her if they were all new she said, "Only six". It's a job to plant 1,000 glads she will tell you.

Another very lovely shrub that is exceedingly beautiful this spring is the pink locust. It's a root spreader. Chances are you can get a start from a friend.

At the Franklin Garden Club Flower Show Saturday, held at the Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts, the subject of French anemones came up. Nobody had luck with them in the garden.

WHEN I MET Rosemary Dun- kile at Kroger's the afternoon of the same day she said, "Come see my anemones. Every bulb I planted came up".

Rosemary bought her anemone bulbs at the Home and Garden Show the last week in February. She says she planted them out just as soon as the weather permitted.

There are two interests that seem to conflict with gardening. One is fishing and the other is horses. Rarely are horse-crazy people flower-crazy too. The same thing is true about fishing.

I never thought that fishing would ever conflict with my gardening. But there have been times this spring when it has. We have been instructed not to throw the little blue gills back into the pond.

I have remembered what the Indians told the Pilgrims — to plant a fish with each grain of corn. So I'm planting the blue gills near my roses.

Back to flower shows! The Gallery of Fine Arts is a wonderful place for a flower show. The Franklin Garden Club did a fine job of staging. They had a fountain surrounded by plants that added greatly to the beauty of the show.

The theme of the show was "Echoes" and at the entrance was an oriental patio with a bamboo screen and bamboo furniture. There were two strings of Japanese chimes, strung upside down and planted with a fountain looking plant.

And on the tea table at the show was a huge punch bowl made of ice with pink rose buds frozen in it.

Ruth Flanders showed us some curious looking spiny balls that had come from her cedar trees. We have seen them before and somebody told us they were cedar apples. Joe Bell told Mrs. Flanders that they were cedar galls. Sometimes they showed up year after year and sometimes they would not be seen for several years.

If anybody invites you to come see her garden do go right away. This is dream time in a garden and all too soon the flowers will be spent. Flowers, like time and tide, wait for no man.

Mrs. John Butler, Cherry Bottom Road, Gahanna, was in an auto accident. Her car was demolished but she herself escaped with no injuries. In fact there she was at the flower show tending to her chores as though nothing had happened the day before.

Mrs. James Jackson, Exwington, was injured on her way to a flower arrangement demonstration. She is now in the hospital at Huntington, W. Va.

Some Wildflowers Need Laws To Save Them from 'Pickers'

When I was a kid, "pickin'" wild flowers was a favorite pastime. Those were the days when conservation was almost an unknown word. What's more flowers were plentiful.

We were compulsive pickers. We picked just to pick. The winner of the day was the youngster who had managed to pick the biggest bouquet, and if you saw that you had no chance you eventually gave your pickings to your best pal so she could be winner.

If the country is denuded of wild flowers blame our generation. I can remember, for instance, when word would get around the third grade that the wild flowers were blooming in the Decker's meadow. After school the meadow would be simply crowded with kids picking wild flowers.

WHAT THE buffalo hunters did to the buffalo on the prairies I am firmly convinced we did to the wild flowers. Instead of the shame I should feel I recall our wild pickin' spree with a smile.

Just the same I can understand how great damage could result from little girls picking wild flowers. The time has come for us all to observe "The Save Our Wild Flowers" plan. Because if we don't strive to save them there will be none to save.

At present, we understand, Ohio has no laws protecting wild flowers. Robert Gordon and Victor Ries at one time compiled a list of plants needing protection. Protection includes indiscriminate picking. The list is as follows:

Arethusa, Azalea, Baneberry, Bellwort, Birdfoot Violet, Bloodroot, Blue-eyed Mary, Buckbean, Canadian Burnet;

Cardinal-flower, Catchfly, Clematis or Virgin's bower, Climbing Fumitory, Columbine, Coral-root, Pink Corydalis, Crested Iris, Culver's root, Fire Pink;

Flowering Dogwood, Foam-flow- er or False Miterwort, Fringed Gentian, Ginseng, Golden-seal, Goat's beard, Grass-of-Parnassus; Grass - pink, Groundnut, Indian Pipe, Jack-in-the-pulpit, Lady's slippers, Lady's tresses, Dwarf Larkspur, Wild Lupines, Marsh-marigold, Meadow Lily, Miterwort or Bishop's-cap;

Mountain-laurel, Orchids, Painted-cup, Partridge-berry, Creeping Phlox, Pinesap, Pipsissewa or Prince's pine, Pitcher-plant, Purple-flowering Raspberry, Putty-root;

Queen-of-the-prairie, Rattlesnake-plantain, Redbud, Rhododendron or Great-laurel, Rose Gentian or Rose-pink, Rueella, Saxifrage, Early, Shadbush, Sin-leaf, Shooting-star, Spiderwort, Stargrass, Steeplebush or Hard- hack;

Toothwort, Trailing Arbutus, Trillium, Trout-lily or Fawn-lily, Turk's-cap Lily, Turtlehead, Twinkleleaf, Wild Indigo;

Wild Sarsaparilla, Wild Senna, Wood Lily.

There is good news however for youngsters who love to pick. Gordon and Ries included a list of flowers which may be picked in the localities where they are abundant. Here is the list:

Adder's tongue, Rue Anemone, White Baneberry, Hairy Beard-tongue, Tall Bellflower, Wild Bergamot, Bitter-grass, Black Haw, Bluets, Blue-eyed Grass, Blue flag;

Butterfly-weed, Carolina Crane's-bill, Dogtooth-violet, Dutchman's-breeches, Wild Geranium, Gerardia (Slender), Golden Ragwort, Harbinger-of-spring, Hawthorn or Red Haw, Hepatica or Liverleaf;

Lizard's-tail, Blue Lobelia, Fringed Yellow Loosestrife, Lungwort or Virginia Bluebells, Mayapple or Mandrake, Swamp Milkweed, Purple Milkwort, Mistflower or Wild Ageratum, Pursn's Phacelia, Wild Blue Phlox, swamp Rose, Virginia Rose, Mallow Rose, Skullcap;

Use the Knife On Forsythia

People frequently ask why their Forsythia does not bloom more prolifically. It may be the pruning. Forsythia flowers on new growth so if you cut the plant back drastically you will have more new growth.

It may be the year. Certain years the bloom of forsythia is heavy. This year, for instance, Forsythia was at its best.

Sometimes a gardener will acquire a plant that seems to have for its special characteristic meager bloom. We believe there are some Forsythias which never bloom heavily.

Give it a chance. Prune well after spring flowering. If your shrub does not bear heavily change to a different plant. A forsythia is a lifelong investment so buy a floriferous type from a reputable nursery.

Three of the newer forsythias which can be counted on for abundant bloom are: Beatrix Ferrand, Lynwood Gold, and Spring Glory.

Wildlings are plainly marked along the trail so that youngsters learn to identify them by name. The center grants permission to youth groups to tour the nature trail at Kingwood.

Don't Let Green-Eyed Envy Ruin Garden-Hopping Tour

Garden hopping is the greatest of sports. And there is no better time for visiting gardens than the first ten days in June.

Garden hopping is vastly different from an organized tour or opening one's garden to the public.

Garden hopping is just friendly garden visiting. It means stopping by at small gardens as well as enjoying large gardens. All over the county gardeners are getting up little expeditions to visit people who are known to have a special interest in iris or peonies.

The average garden is at its best now. You can enjoy yourself and learn a lot when you go garden hopping. And almost any garden owner welcomes friends who are interested enough to visit. There's a good bit of swapping, too.

BUT it's almost too late to disturb perennials now. Garden hopping is more for looking than for digging.

There is one big drawback to garden hopping. The green-eyed monster is almost sure to work on you. You may have left home thinking you had a darling collection of iris. And you return thinking your own little garden's a pretty sorry affair.

Philosophically speaking all gardeners have their problems, shade or lack of space or no time. So if your problems are such that you

Time To Care For Fall Mums

Hardy Flowers Have Diseases

From now until July gardeners will be dividing and planting their chrysanthemums. Even if mums are planted in late June they will have plenty of time to grow before blooming time.

As lovely as chrysanthemums are and as easy to grow, they still are subject to disease and insect trouble. So even as you plant get out the spray gun and be prepared when the first sign of trouble starts.

The chrysanthemum aphid is the most frequently encountered insect enemy. This species is easily distinguished from other aphids by its chocolate brown color. They are generally found clustered on terminal shoots and on undersides of leaves. Chrysanthemum aphids continually drain plant juices and not only cause plant disfigurement but may eventually cause the death of the plant.

The honeydew excreted by the chrysanthemum aphid serves as a medium for the growth of an unsightly black sooty mold. This honeydew also attracts other destructive insects.

AT THE FIRST sign of aphids, chrysanthemums should be thoroughly sprayed with nicotine sulphate solution (Black Leaf 40). Be sure the spray covers the insects. Several applications, a week apart, may be required for effective control.

The Mexican mealybug can also cause serious damage to chrysanthemums. These tiny insects are about one-fifth of an inch long and are covered with a white, waxy excretion. They attack leaves, stems, and flowers, causing stunting and distortion.

A spray of white-oil combined with Black Leaf 40 is recommended for control. The spray should be applied with as much force as the plant can withstand. Before spraying, all dead or heavily infested portions of the plant should be destroyed.

Although plant diseases rarely kill chrysanthemums, they can damage and seriously disfigure plants. Many of these diseases can be prevented by these six simple rules.

1. Don't plant in wet, shady places.
2. Don't crowd plants—give them plenty of room for air circulation.
3. Water only during the early hours of the day.
4. As soon as plant is well established, apply spray containing zinc (Sheen fungicide) or Bordeaux mixture.
5. Spray thoroughly with nicotine sulphate solution to prevent insects and growth of sooty mold.
6. Stake plants to keep branches off the ground.

Unpampered Tulips Live 49 Years

One of the most heart-warming sights we have seen in many a long day was the planting of golden tulips to the east of Mrs. Orion King's house. They were blooming like mad and what a splurge of color they made! The individual blossoms were small as tulips go but they made up a size by number.

Imagine our surprise when Mrs. King told us they had been planted there over 49 years ago. A 49-year-old tulip is a Methusala in the tulip world.

Mrs. King believes the Bennets (The ice house people) who formerly owned the house had planted them there. She has never pampered them but occasionally digs and divides them.

Old Insecticide Still Does Work

In this age of so-called "miracle" chemicals it is important that the gardener does not overlook many of the older and wider-used chemicals available. In many cases these established, tried and proved preparations provide the best answer to the gardener's specific insect problems.

Nicotine sulphate is an excellent example of a chemical preparation that has been used for over 80 years and is still one of the most effective insecticides available for the control of aphids and similar sucking insects.

The history of nicotine sulphate as a garden spray can be traced back to 1879. A company producing wrappings for plug tobacco used a process which involved soaking the tobacco leaf in an alcohol solution. During this soaking, the alcohol absorbed a volatile alkaloid from the tobacco, commonly known as nicotine.

FOR YEARS this solution had been discarded but through experiments the tobacco company found that it effectively killed lice and mites.

After this discovery the solution was bottled and sold to farmers and gardeners for insect control. It was one of the first commercially prepared insecticides ever sold.

After extensive research, it was found that nicotine could be much more effectively used as an insecticide in a 40 per cent nicotine sulphate solution. This type of solution kills aphids, thrips, leafhoppers and similar sucking insects with a two-way action... by contact and by "gassing" them with fumes. This solution was trademarked "Black Leaf 40" and offered to the public.

Research on the use of nicotine sulphate has been continuous. The results of this scientific investigation are important to gardeners and indicate that 40 per cent nicotine sulphate offers qualities which are superior to many of the newer chemicals.

For example, there is no insect build-up to immunity from 40 per cent nicotine sulphate spray. Through all of its years of use insects have not been able to develop strains resistant to nicotine sulphate.

Insects have been able to build up immunity to many of the newer, so-called "miracle" chemicals. The development of resistant insect strains has been most disconcerting to gardeners who might find that last year's "miracle" turns out to be this year's "disappointment."

ALTHOUGH 40 per cent nicotine sulphate is a highly effective killer of harmful insects, it does not destroy beneficial predatory insects or pollinizers. These beneficial insects actually aid the gardener by helping to destroy harmful insects. Of course the pollinizers, such as bees, play an important role in the plant reproductive cycle.

It is important to note that many conservation authorities and bird lovers have been concerned by many of the newer chemicals causing the destruction of bird life. This destruction of bird life is actually caused indirectly by the chemicals and retain the poison in serious threat.

The insects eat portions of the plants covered with the newer chemicals and retain the poison internally. Birds then eat the insects and become poisoned by the chemical residue remaining in the insect's stomach. Since 40 per cent nicotine sulphate kills by external contact and fumes this threat to bird life is not present when 40 per cent nicotine sulphate is used.

To make the gardener's job easier, 40 per cent nicotine sulphate is compatible with most standard spray materials, making it ideal for combination spraying. Combination spraying which might utilize several different insecticides and fungicides allows the gardener to do several jobs at the same time.

Along with these other qualities, 40 per cent nicotine sulphate offers the advantage of being non-caustic, thereby protecting foliage. It does not leave any unsightly residue after application.

The gardener must remember that he is faced with over 300,000 different types of insect enemies. Proper chemical selection depends upon the type of control that is needed and on what type of plant application is to be made.

There is no universal cure-all. However, if your problem is aphids, thrips, leafhoppers or similar sucking insects on roses, gladioli, mums, many shrubs, vegetables, or fruit trees, we suggest that 40 per cent nicotine sulphate is worthy of your most serious consideration.

It has been a gardener's standby for many years and though over 80 years old should still be considered a modern chemical "miracle."

Some Wildflowers Need Laws To Save Them from 'Pickers'

When I was a kid, "pickin'" wild flowers was a favorite pastime. Those were the days when conservation was almost an unknown word. What's more flowers were plentiful.

We were compulsive pickers. We picked just to pick. The winner of the day was the youngster who had managed to pick the biggest bouquet, and if you saw that you had no chance you eventually gave your pickings to your best pal so she could be winner.

If the country is denuded of wild flowers blame our generation. I can remember, for instance, when word would get around the third grade that the wild flowers were blooming in the Decker's meadow. After school the meadow would be simply crowded with kids picking wild flowers.

WHAT THE buffalo hunters did to the buffalo on the praries I am firmly convinced we did to the wild flowers. Instead of the shame I should feel I recall our wild pickin' sprees with a smile.

Just the same I can understand how great damage could result from little girls picking wild flowers. The time has come for us all to observe "The Save Our Wild Flowers" plan. Because if we don't strive to save them there will be none to save.

At present, we understand, Ohio has no laws protecting wild flowers. Robert Gordon and Victor Ries at one time compiled a list of plants needing protection. Protection includes indiscriminate picking. The list is as follows: Aethusa, Azalea, Baneberry, Bellwort, Birdfoot Violet, Bloodroot, Blue-eyed Mary, Buckbean, Canadian Burnet;

Cardinal-flower, Catchfly, Clematis or Virgin's bower, Climbing Fumitory, Columbine, Coral-root, Pink Corydalis, Crested Iris, Culver's root, Fire Pink;

Flowering Dogwood, Foam-flower or False Mitrewort, Fringed Gentian, Ginseng, Golden-seal, Goat's beard, Grass-of-Parnassus; Grass - pink, Groundnut, Indian Pipe, Jack-in-the-pulpit, Lady's slippers, Lady's tresses, Dwarf Larkspur, Wild Lupines, Marsh-marigold, Meadow Lily, Mitrewort or Bishop's-cap;

Mountain-laurel, Orchids, Painted-cup, Partridge-berry, Creeping Phlox, Pinesap, Pippisewaw or Prince's pine, Pitcher-plant, Purple-flowering Raspberry, Putty-root;

Queen-of-the-prairie, Rattlesnake-plantain, Redbud, Rhododendron or Great-laurel, Rose Gentian or Rose-pink, Rue, Saxifrage, Early Shadbush, Sinleaf, Shooting-star, Spiderwort, Stargrass, Steeplebush or Hardhack; Toothwort, Trailing Arbutus, Trillium, Trout-lily or Fawn-lily, Turk's-cap Lily, Turtlehead, Twinleaf, Wild Indigo; Wild Sarsaparilla, Wild Senna, Wood Lily.

There is good news however for youngsters who love to pick. Gordon and Ries included a list of flowers which may be picked in the localities where they are abundant. Here is the list:

Adder's tongue, Rue Anemone, White Baneberry, Hairy Beard-tongue, Tall Bellflower, Wild Bergamot, Bitter-grass, Black Haw, Blueets, Blue-eyed Grass, Blue flag;

Butterfly-weed, Carolina Crane's-bill, Dogtooth-violet, Dutchman's-breeches, Wild Geranium, Gerardia (Slender), Golden Ragwort, Harbinger-of-spring, Hawthorn or Red Haw, Hepatica or Liverleaf;

Lizard's-tail, Blue Lobelia, Fringed Yellow Loosestrife, Lungwort or Virginia Bluebells, Mayapple or Mandrake, Swamp Milkweed, Purple Milkwort, Mistflower or Wild Ageratum, Pursh's Phacelia, Wild Blue Phlox, swamp Rose, Virginia Rose, Mallow Rose, Skullcap;

Use the Knife On Forsythia

People frequently ask why their Forsythia does not bloom more prolifically. It may be the pruning. Forsythia flowers on new growth so if you cut the plant back drastically you will have more new growth.

It may be the year. Certain years the bloom of forsythia is heavy. This year, for instance, Forsythia was at its best.

Sometimes a gardener will acquire a plant that seems to have for its special characteristic meager bloom. We believe there are some Forsythias which never bloom heavily.

Give it a chance. Prune well after spring flowering. If your shrub does not bear heavily change to a different plant. A forsythia is a lifelong investment so buy a floriferous type from a reputable nursery.

Three of the newer forsythias which can be counted on for abundant bloom are: Beatrix Ferrand, Lynwood Gold, and Spring Glory.

Don't Let Green-Eyed Envy Ruin Garden-Hopping Tour

Garden hopping is the greatest of sports. And there is no better time for visiting gardens than the first ten days in June.

Garden hopping is vastly different from an organized tour or opening one's garden to the public.

Garden hopping is just friendly garden visiting. It means stopping by at small gardens as well as enjoying large gardens. All over the county gardeners are getting up little expeditions to visit people who are known to have a special interest in iris or peonies.

The average garden is at its best now. You can enjoy yourself and learn a lot when you go garden hopping. And almost any garden owner welcomes friends who are interested enough to visit. There's a good bit of swapping, too.

BUT it's almost too late to disturb perennials now. Garden hopping is more for looking than for digging. There is one big drawback to garden hopping. The green-eyed monster is almost sure to work on you. You may have left home thinking you had a darling collection of iris. And you return thinking your own little garden's a pretty sorry affair.

Philosophically speaking all gardeners have their problems, shade or lack of space or no time. So if your problems are such that your

Time To Care For Fall Mums

Hardy Flowers Have Diseases

From now until July gardeners will be dividing and planting their chrysanthemums. Even if mums are planted in late June they will have plenty of time to grow before blooming time.

As lovely as chrysanthemums are and as easy to grow, they still are subject to disease and insect trouble. So even as you plant get out the spray gun and be prepared when the first sign of trouble starts.

The chrysanthemum aphid is the most frequently encountered insect enemy. This species is easily distinguished from other aphids by its chocolate brown color. They are generally found clustered on terminal shoots and on undersides of leaves. Chrysanthemum aphids continually drain plant juices and not only cause plant discoloration but may eventually cause the death of the plant.

The honeydew excreted by the chrysanthemum aphid serves as a medium for the growth of an unsightly black sooty mold. This honeydew also attracts other destructive insects.

AT THE FIRST sign of aphids, chrysanthemums should be thoroughly sprayed with nicotine sulphate solution (Black Leaf 40). Be sure the spray covers the insects. Several applications, a week apart, may be required for effective control.

The Mexican mealybug can also cause serious damage to chrysanthemums. These tiny insects are about one-fifth of an inch long and are covered with a white, waxy excretion. They attack leaves, stems, and flowers, causing stunting and distortion.

A spray of white-oil combined with Black Leaf 40 is recommended for control. The spray should be applied with as much force as the plant can withstand. Before spraying, all dead or heavily infested portions of the plant should be destroyed.

Although plant diseases rarely kill chrysanthemums, they can damage and seriously disfigure plants. Many of these diseases can be prevented by these six simple rules.

1. Don't plant in wet, shady places.
2. Don't crowd plants—give them plenty of room for air circulation.
3. Water only during the early hours of the day.
4. As soon as plant is well established, apply spray containing zinc (Sheen fungicide) or Bordeaux mixture.
5. Spray thoroughly with nicotine sulphate solution to prevent insects and growth of sooty mold.
6. Stake plants to keep branches off the ground.

Unpampered Tulips Live 49 Years

One of the most heart-warming sights we have seen in many a long day was the planting of golden tulips to the east of Mrs. Orion King's house. They were blooming like mad and what a splurge of color they made! The individual blossoms were small as tulips go but they made up a size by number.

Imagine our surprise when Mrs. King told us they had been planted there over 49 years ago. A 49-year-old tulip is a Methusala in the tulip world.

Mrs. King believes the Bennets (The ice house people) who formerly owned the house had planted them there. She has never pampered them but occasionally digs and divides them.

Old Insecticide Still Does Work

In this age of so-called "miracle" chemicals it is important that the gardener does not overlook many of the older and wider used chemicals available. In many cases these established, tried and proved preparations provide the best answer to the gardener's specific insect problems.

Nicotine sulphate is an excellent example of a chemical preparation that has been used for over 80 years and is still one of the most effective insecticides available for the control of aphids and similar sucking insects.

The history of nicotine sulphate as a garden spray can be traced back to 1879. A company producing wrappers for plug tobacco used a process which involved soaking the tobacco leaf in an alcohol solution.

During this soaking, the alcohol absorbed a volatile alkaloid from the tobacco, commonly known as nicotine.

FOR YEARS this solution had been discarded but through experiments the tobacco company found that it effectively killed lice and mites.

After this discovery the solution was bottled and sold to farmers and gardeners for insect control. It was one of the first commercially prepared insecticides ever sold.

After extensive research, it was found that nicotine could be much more effectively used as an insecticide in a 40 per cent nicotine sulphate solution. This type of solution kills aphids, thrips, leafhoppers and similar sucking insects with a two-way action... by contact and by "gassing" them with fumes. This solution was trademarked "Black Leaf 40" and offered to the public.

Research on the use of nicotine sulphate has been continuous. The results of this scientific investigation are important to gardeners and indicate that 40 per cent nicotine sulphate offers qualities which are superior to many of the newer chemicals.

For example, there is no insect build-up to immunity from 40 per cent nicotine sulphate spray. Through all of its years of use insects have not been able to develop strains resistant to nicotine sulphate.

Insects have been able to build-up immunity to many of the newer, so-called "miracle" chemicals. The development of resistant insect strains has been most disconcerting to gardeners who might find that last year's "miracle" turns out to be this year's "disappointment."

ALTHOUGH 40 per cent nicotine sulphate is a highly effective killer of harmful insects, it does not destroy beneficial predatory insects or pollinizers. These beneficial insects actually aid the gardener by helping to destroy harmful insects. Of course the pollinizers, such as bees, play an important role in the plant reproductive cycle.

It is important to note that many conservation authorities and bird lovers have been concerned by many of the newer chemicals causing the destruction of bird life. This destruction of bird life is actually caused indirectly by the chemicals and retain the poison in serious threat.

The insects eat portions of the plants covered with the newer chemicals and retain the poison internally. Birds then eat the insects and become poisoned by the chemical residue remaining in the insect's stomach. Since 40 per cent nicotine sulphate kills by external contact and fumes this threat to bird life is not present when 40 per cent nicotine sulphate is used.

To make the gardener's job easier, 40 per cent nicotine sulphate is compatible with most standard spray materials making it ideal for combination spraying. Combination spraying which might utilize several different insecticides and fungicides allows the gardener to do several jobs at the same time.

Along with these other qualities, 40 per cent nicotine sulphate offers the advantage of being non-caustic, thereby protecting foliage. It does not leave any unsightly residue after application.

The gardener must remember that he is faced with over 300,000 different types of insect enemies. Proper chemical selection depends upon the type of control that is needed and on what type of plant application is to be made.

There is no universal cure-all. However, if your problem is aphids, thrips, leafhoppers or similar sucking insects on roses, gladioli, mums, many shrubs, vegetables, or fruit trees, we suggest that 40 per cent nicotine sulphate is worthy of your most serious consideration.

It has been a gardener's standby for many years and though over 80 years old should still be considered a modern chemical "miracle."

New Missile Almost Ready

Solid-fuel Minuteman intercontinental ballistic missile is nearer perfection than was anticipated by rosiest projections several months ago. Seven test firings have been held. Each one was a success. Now the Air Force plans to fire the weapon from its silo launching facility without further above-ground testing.

At one time in the early development of Minuteman, the problems of launching from silos loomed so large that an alternate plan was devised to fire missiles from railroad trains. This was to gain the protection of mobility.

But the difficulties of firing from the underground silos did not prove as insurmountable as originally feared. Scientists devised a system of turning the backlash from the missile upward, out of the silo.

Meanwhile, the railroad-car system was pushed ahead. The two plans worked so well that Minuteman now is to be fired from both kinds of installations, hardened silos capable of withstanding a million pounds of pressure a square inch and rail cars that can be scattered around the nation.

First silos will be built in Montana beginning next January. They will take 15 to 18 months.

It appears that the United States will have Atlas, Titan and Minuteman ICBMs on station, ready to fire if needed, all about the same time.

Federal Agencies Imperfect

Periodically tipsters in stocks circularize the trade with messages to buy the stocks of gold mining companies. Their refrain is that the price of this metal is going up and holders of shares will profit.

Supply and demand mitigate against the possibility. Last year the world, excluding the Soviet Union, which keeps its figures secret, mined 2.2 million ounces more gold than during any postwar year. The value of gold mined and of that released by Russia in settlement of foreign trade balances totaled $1.4 billion at the price fixed by the U. S. Treasury of $35 an ounce.

It is estimated that $800 million of this

1959 gold is now in the central banks of the world, strengthening the monetary stability of many nations. Industry and the arts used $200 million of it. The remainder, $400 million or 28 per cent, simply disappeared through hoarding.

At the height of the U. S. inflationary cycle in 1951, about 65 per cent of the world's gold production was going to the hoarders who wanted something to hang onto in the face of cheapening money. It is reassuring that a much greater proportion of the current gold is being deployed as currency backing and less into private hoards in fear of runaway inflation.

Remarks To Irk the Family Dog

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks the family dog gets tired of hearing:

"After he's 6 months old, it isn't good for a dog to eat more than once a day."

"Sit up, Rover, and beg."

"I see by the newspaper that some old maid left $50,000 to her cat. Why is it so few people leave money to dogs?"

"We bought Rover for a watch dog, but we feel sure now that if burglars broke into the house the only thing he'd do is lead them to the silverware."

"As soon as you let him out, he decides he wants to get back in. Let him scratch at the door for a while."

"Lassie doesn't have a thing on Rover—except size, looks, brains and a bank account."

"I wouldn't say he was exactly afraid of the cat next door. But when she comes into our yard, he's the one that tries to climb a tree."

"Even if your little boy does pull his tail, Rover won't bite. He simply adores children."

"The man at the store said this new canned dog food was much more nutritious than fresh meat, so I bought two cases."

"Let's get one thing clear, Rover—the day you start paying the rent is the day you can start sleeping on the sofa."

"We'll have to leave him at the vet's during our vacation. He may miss us, but after all there'll be a lot of other dogs there to keep him company."

"It's got so he's just like one of the family. The one I have in mind is my mother-in-law."

"Well, most dogs don't really like to be patted on the head, but Rover doesn't mind. He's too lazy to mind anything."

"What do I mean by lazy? Well, if I give him a bone, he trots out into the back yard and just stands there—waiting for me to dig a hole so he can bury it."

"A guy in the next block is buying his pooch an air-conditioned doghouse. He must be out of his mind. I don't believe in spoiling dogs."

"What a life! He spends five minutes a day eating — and 23 hours and 55 minutes sleeping." "Sometimes his expression is almost human. If Rover could really talk, I wonder what he would say to us."

Time Now for Water Worry

By George Sokolsky

One of the most serious political and social problems of universal concern is water. In this country, we generally assume that two things remain free for all to use, air and water. It is not always true about water and never in cities where the people are taxed for it. In some parts of the world, water is so scarce that it has to be used sparingly and treaties are made concerning it.

Marco Polo (1254-1324) wrote a description of his travels from Italy to Peking and back. He describes many rich areas, with gardens and farmlands. Some of the areas are now deserts and they are deserts because the water upon which their richness depended has disappeared.

The question as to whether the water table of the United States is falling is not subject to opinion; it is a matter for study and the production of accurate statistical data. On Aug. 12, 1958, the House Committee on Government Operations recommended:

"The office of Saline Water must substantially increase its efforts in advancing both basic research and pilot plant work in the saline water conversion program. Such effort would be facilitated by amendment of the Saline Water Act to eliminate the financial authorization restrictions now present in that act and by appropriation of sufficient additional sums to enable such work to proceed promptly and without deferment."

Nothing has been done about this recommendation but the need for such research is great. It is estimated that the available fresh water supply in the United States amounts to about 515,000,000,000 gallons a day and that we are now using about 312,000,000,000 gallons a day. The water supply is not evenly divided over the United States and in some areas there is a definite shortage. If the population and the industrial development of the United States continue to increase, there ought to be a very serious water shortage in the country in 1975 which is only 15 years away. The time to consider this is now.

In 1957, the United States suffered from a water shortage which struck 47 states. More than 1,000 cities and towns in 1957 had to restrict the use of water.

The simplest solution to this problem is the adaptation of salt water to current needs. The cost is still very high but the quantity is unlimited. Considerable research is required to bring the cost of desalted water down to a reasonable price. Several plants already exist to distill water and the results are very satisfactory.

The alternative to the conversion of salt water is to limit use, which would be unsatisfactory. The United States is surrounded by water — the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, the Gulf of Mexico — water everywhere. It ought to be possible to develop a salt water distillation for usable water, to be carried in pipe lines across the country, so that there would be a shortage nowhere. This is a feasible plan only if it is developed slowly and correctly and does not have to become a crash program where an actual drought is in existence.

The Secretary of the Interior has been out in charge of this program by an Act of Congress passed in 1952, with a considerable budget for research and experimental plant operation. All this work is to the good because when it is possible to convert salt water into usable water, the United States will have all the water that is required for individual use, farm and industrial use at a reasonable cost.

This is the objective and it does not need to be justified by fulsome attention to what other nations that lack water will say about us. It will be sufficient that we send a crisis, met it by careful research and experimentation and averted calamity.

I have lived among people who have inadequate water supply. I have seen their soil blown away by cyclonic winds. I have seen women carrying water on their shoulders because water is one of the most precious ingredients of life.

We need not ever face such a situation as converting the apparently unlimited supply of salt water to sweet water, usable for all purposes. It can be done and thus far, the experiments have been bringing the cost down. It could be that the mineral products taken out of the water would, in the long run, return great wealth.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A SUCCESSFUL AUTHOR has one worry that readers seldom stop to consider: what does he do when a man pops out of nowhere with exactly the same name he has invented for a character in his new novel? His plight is particularly embarrassing if the character is a scoundrel.

Mark Twain once selected a name for one of his villains he believed to be utterly safe. It was "Colonel Horace P. Whimplefeather." The day after the story appeared a very much alive, very angry character named Horace P. Whimplefeather burst into Twain's office with a horsewhip and chased the author down the street, challenging him to a duel!

Don't Delay Eye Exam

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

In the past I have written quite a bit about eye trouble in children and how to detect it. Now I think it's about time I discussed the matter of eye trouble in adults.

Any frequent or constant irritation of the eye should be investigated. If only a part of the eye is irritated, it might mean that a foreign particle, a speck of dirt, perhaps, is causing the trouble.

When you suspect that this is the case, I suggest that you pull the eyelid down over the eye. This induces tears which might be enough to wash the offender from the eye.

If it doesn't, try pouring a little lukewarm tap water into the eye. These are the simple methods that you can attempt yourself.

If they don't solve the problem, I suggest you contact your doctor or eye specialist. It is a simple trick for an expert to remove a foreign body from the eye. It won't take long and it won't cost you much. So don't worry about that part of it.

The important thing is to have it taken care of promptly and adequately.

All of you should interpret any disturbance of the eye's clearness as a danger signal, and one which calls for prompt attention.

The eye may become blood-shot.

Bitter War of the Races

Blacks To Shoot Blindly In Eventual Revolution

By SAUL PETT

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—How angry, how restless are the natives of South Africa under the white man's rule?

No public opinion polls cover this part of the world but there are some clues.

A black man working on a railroad or in a construction gang raises his sledgehammer, brings it down hard and, with deep fury, chants in Zulu: "Abelingo God damn basi biza o Jim."

Translation: "The whites, God damn them, they call us Jim."

Or Charlie or Henry or boy or any name the white man chooses except the right one.

"We are ready to fight if guns ever come down from the north," a young native student told me. "There is no doubt; some day we will have a revolution," said a native teacher.

"And the worst part of the tragedy," said a young native writer, "is that when it comes, we will be blind. We will have to shoot the whites we like and the whites we don't like. There will be no time to distinguish."

But all of them agreed that the great mass of natives are still far from revolt because they are politically uninformed.

We were talking in a smoke-filled, crowded, candle-lit shebeen, a speakeasy. In South Africa, blacks are prohibited by white man's law from drinking liquor.

This shebeen was in a huge housing development outside of Johannesburg, where the government has replaced the dirty old shacks of metal sheets and clay floors with new larger houses of concrete or cinder block.

More than a dozen natives crowded around me in the dimly lit of a neat, three-room house run by the "queen" of the shebeen. Cool jazz came from a record player in the corner. The Africans assembled wore Western clothes and some had the little beads symbolic of jazz fiends everywhere.

But jazz wasn't on their minds. In perfect English, they told an American reporter of their troubles and hopes.

"With the arrogance of the present government, which we can't even consult," said the writer, "there ultimately can be no other way but revolution. We won't settle for anything less than full equal rights."

"But remember, chaps," said the teacher, "only about three-eighths of our people know what's going on. The rest know nothing. With all our leaders in jail, there is no one to educate or lead them."

"Yes, but an underground is forming," said another man. "We will have a new organization and the day after the state of emergency is lifted, there will be more Sharpevilles, more riots, more bloodshed."

A fat little man suddenly grabbed my lapels. "I had a friend, a teacher, I knew from boyhood," he said. "He was arrested for a pass book offense. He was tough and he was brave and he wouldn't be pushed around. They took him to a prison farm where he probably objected to something—you don't object to anything in a prison farm."

"He was killed. He was beaten to death. I know because I saw the marks on his body and I buried him."

Most of the native political unrest comes from the cities. Those in the country hear little of politics. But at one Zulu reserve, I found an exception, a native chief.

"We want to be free of colonialism, we want to own our own land," he said. "We want a voice in Parliament. We don't want to throw the white man out. We want to share his leadership. But above all, we don't want violence."

The black man, especially those in the urban areas, has come far under the white man's rule. Generally, he eats better, lives better, earns more by African standards, gets more education, more medical attention. But the irony of progress, so far as the government is concerned, is that those who have advanced the most in education suffer the most from the claustrophobia of apartheid or separation of the races.

Apartheid is not new. The white man has been corralling and segregating the black man ever since he came to South Africa 300 years ago. The segregation is total. The native of South Africa can not vote or join a union or strike or hold a skilled job in a white area. There's little call for skilled workers in black areas. He can not buy his own home in the new urban housing locations.

He can not use the white man's elevator or train or bus or theater or park bench or wash room or restaurant or even the counter at the post office.

He must carry a pass book of identification at all times and get it signed once a month by his employer or be arrested. He must get permission to change jobs or visit another town or, as in many cases where a couple is separated by different jobs, he must get a special permit to visit his wife for a few evening hours. He can not be out on the streets after 11 p.m. without a special permit. And for all these symbols of white man's permission he must queue up outside government offices and wait in line for hours.

The great majority of whites, both English and Afrianders, support total segregation. But it is the Afrianders nationalist who resists any change or modification most bitterly. Many English feel they can always go home. The Afriander regards this as his only homeland.

New Missile Almost Ready

Solid-fuel Minuteman intercontinental ballistics missile is nearer perfection than was anticipated by rosiest projections several months ago. Seven test firings have been held. Each one was a success. Now the Air Force plans to fire the weapon from its silo launching facility without further above-ground testing.

At one time in the early development of Minuteman, the problems of launching from silos loomed so large that an alternate plan was devised to fire missiles from railroad trains. This was to gain the protection of mobility.

But the difficulties of firing from the underground silos did not prove as insurmountable as originally feared. Scientists devised a system of turning the backlash from the missile upward, out of the silo.

Meanwhile, the railroad-car system was pushed ahead. The two plans worked so well that Minuteman now is to be fired from both kinds of installations, hardened silos capable of withstanding a million pounds of pressure a square inch and rail cars that can be scattered around the nation.

First silos will be built in Montana beginning next January. They will take 15 to 18 months.

It appears that the United States will have Atlas, Titan and Minuteman ICBMs on station, ready to fire if needed, all about the same time.

Federal Agencies Imperfect

Periodically tipsters in stocks circularize the trade with messages to buy the stocks of gold mining companies. Their refrain is that the price of this metal is going up and holders of shares will profit.

Supply and demand mitigate against the possibility. Last year the world, excluding the Soviet Union, which keeps its figures secret, mined 2.2 million ounces more gold than during any postwar year. The value of gold mined and of that released by Russia in settlement of foreign trade balances totaled $1.4 billion at the price fixed by the U. S. Treasury of $35 an ounce.

It is estimated that $800 million of this

1959 gold is now in the central banks of the world, strengthening the monetary stability of many nations. Industry and the arts used $200 million of it. The remainder, $400 million or 28 per cent, simply disappeared through hoarding.

At the height of the U. S. inflationary cycle in 1951, about 65 per cent of the world's gold production was going to the hoarders who wanted something to hang onto in the face of cheapening money. It is reassuring that a much greater proportion of the current gold is being deployed as currency backing and less into private hoards in fear of runaway inflation.

Remarks To Irk the Family Dog

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks the family dog gets tired of hearing.

"After he's 6 months old, it isn't good for a dog to eat more than once a day."

"Sit up, Rover, and beg."

"I see by the newspaper that some old maid left $50,000 to her cat. Why is it so few people leave money to dogs?"

"We bought Rover for a watch dog, but we feel sure now that if burglars broke into the house the only thing he'd do is lead them to the silverware."

"As soon as you let him out, he decides he wants to get back in. Let him scratch at the door for a while."

"Lassie doesn't have a thing on Rover—except size, looks, brains and a bank account."

"I wouldn't say he was exactly afraid of the cat next door. But when she comes into my yard, he's the one that tries to climb a tree."

"Even if your little boy does pull his tail, Rover won't bite. He simply adores children."

"The man at the store said this new canned dog food was much more nutritious than fresh meat, so I bought two cases."

"Let's get one thing clear, Rover—the day you start paying the rent is the day you can start sleeping on the sofa."

"We'll have to leave him at the vet's during our vacation. He may miss us, but after all there'll be a lot of other dogs there to keep him company."

"It's got so he's just like one of the family. The one I have in mind is my mother-in-law."

"Well, most dogs don't really like to be patted on the head, but Rover doesn't mind. He's too lazy to mind anything."

"What do I mean by lazy? Well, if I give him a bone, he trots out into the back yard and just stands there—waiting for me to dig a hole so he can bury it."

"A guy in the next block is buying his pooch an air-conditioned doghouse. He must be out of his mind. I don't believe in spoiling dogs."

"What a life! He spends five minutes a day eating — and 23 hours and 55 minutes sleeping."

"Sometimes his expression is almost human. If Rover could really talk, I wonder what he would say to us."

Time Now for Water Worry

By George Sokolsky

One of the most serious political and social problems of universal concern is water. In this country, we generally assume that two things remain free for all to use, air and water. It is not always true about water and never in cities where the people are taxed for it. In some parts of the world, water is so scarce that it has to be used sparingly and treaties are made concerning it.

Marco Polo (1254-1324) wrote a description of his travels from Italy to Peking and back. He describes many rich areas, with gardens and farmlands. Some of the areas are now deserts and they are deserts because the water upon which their richness depended has disappeared.

The question as to whether the water table of the United States is falling is not subject to opinion; it is a matter for study and the production of accurate statistical data. On Aug. 12, 1958, the House Committee on Government Operations recommended:

"The office of Saline Water must substantially increase its efforts in advancing both basic research and pilot plant work in the saline water conversion program. Such effort would be facilitated by amendment of the Saline Water Act to eliminate the financial authorization restrictions now present in that act and by appropriation of sufficient additional sums to enable such work to proceed promptly and without deferment."

Nothing has been done about this recommendation but the need for such research is great. It is estimated that the available fresh water supply in the United States amounts to about 515,000,000,000 gallons a day and that we are now using about 312,000,000,000 gallons a day. The water supply is not evenly divided over the United States and in some areas there is a definite shortage. If the population and the industrial development of the United States continue to increase, there ought to be a very serious water shortage in the country in 1975 which is only 15 years away. The time to consider this is now.

In 1957, the United States suffered from a water shortage which struck 47 states. More than 1,000 cities and towns in 1957 had to restrict the use of water.

The simplest solution to this problem is the adaptation of salt water to current needs. The cost is still very high but the quantity is unlimited. Considerable research is required to bring the cost of desalted water down to a reasonable price. Several plants already exist to distill water and the results are very satisfactory.

The alternative to the conversion of salt water is to limit use, which would be unsatisfactory. The United States is surrounded by water — the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, the Gulf of Mexico — water everywhere. It ought to be possible to develop a salt water distillation for use as water, to be carried in pipe lines across the country, so that there would be a shortage nowhere. This is a feasible plan only if it is developed slowly and correctly and does not have to become a crash program where an actual drought is in existence.

The Secretary of the Interior has been out in charge of this program by an Act of Congress passed in 1952, with a considerable budget for research and experimental plant operation. All this work is to the good because when it is possible to convert salt water into usable water, the United States will have all the water that is required for individual use, farm and industrial use at a reasonable cost.

This is the objective and it does not need to be justified by fulsome attention to what other nations that lack water will say about us. It will be sufficient that we sense a crisis, met it by careful research and experimentation and averted calamity.

I have lived among people who have inadequate water supply. I have seen their soil blown away by cyclonic winds. I have seen women carrying water on their shoulders because water is one of the most precious ingredients of life.

We need not ever face such a

could be taken the mineral products taken out of the water would, in the long run, return great wealth.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A SUCCESSFUL AUTHOR has one worry that readers seldom stop to consider: what does he do when a man pops out of nowhere with exactly the same name he has invented for a character in his new novel? His plight is particularly embarrassing if the character is a scoundrel.

Mark Twain once selected a name for one of his villains he believed to be utterly safe. It was "Colonel Horace P. Whimblefeather." The day after the story appeared a very much alive, very angry character named Horace P. Whimblefeather burst into Twain's office with a horsewhip and chased the author down the street, challenging him to a duel!

"My wooden leg has been giving me a lot of pain lately," sighed a famous writer at the Overseas Press club. "How could a wooden leg give you pain?" asked Norman Cousins. "It's my wife's fault," the writer explained. "She hit me over the head with it."

Don't Delay Eye Exam

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

In the past I have written quite a bit about eye trouble in children and how to detect it. Now I think it's about time I discussed the matter of eye trouble in adults.

Any frequent or constant irritation of the eye should be investigated. If only a part of the eye is irritated, it might mean that a foreign particle, a speck of dirt, perhaps, is causing the trouble.

When you suspect that this is the case, I suggest that you pull the eyelid down over the eye. This induces tears which might be enough to wash the offender from the eye.

If it doesn't, try pouring a little lukewarm tap water into the eye. These are the simple methods that you can attempt yourself.

If they don't solve the problem, I suggest you contact your doctor or eye specialist. It is a simple trick for an expert to remove a foreign body from the eye. It won't take long and it won't cost you much. So don't worry about that part of it.

The important thing is to have it taken care of promptly and adequately.

All of you should interpret any disturbance of the eye's clearance as a danger signal, and one which calls for prompt attention.

The eye may become bloodshot.

Bitter War of the Races

Blacks To Shoot Blindly In Eventual Revolution

By SAUL PETT
JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—How angry, how restless are the natives of South Africa under the white man's rule?

No public opinion polls cover this part of the world but there are some clues.

A black man working on a railroad or in a construction gang raises his sledgehammer, brings it down hard and, with deep fury, chants in Zulu: "Abelingo God damn basi biza o Jim."

Translation: "The whites, God damn them, they call us Jim." Or Charlie or Henry or boy or any name the white man chooses except the right one.

"We are ready to fight if guns ever come down from the north," a young native student told me. "There is no doubt; some day we will have a revolution," said a native teacher.

"And the worst part of the tragedy," said a young native writer, "is that when it comes, we will be blind. We will have to shoot the whites we like and the whites we don't like. There will be no time to distinguish."

But all of them agreed that the great mass of natives are still far from revolt because they are politically uninformed.

We were talking in a smoke-filled, crowded, candle-lit shebeen, a speakeasy. In South Africa, blacks are prohibited by white man's law from drinking liquor.

This shebeen was in a huge housing development outside of Johannesburg, where the government has replaced the dirty old shacks of metal sheets and clay floors with new larger houses of concrete or cinder block.

More than a dozen natives crowded around me in the dinette of a neat, three-room house run by the "queen" of the shebeen. Cool jazz came from a record player in the corner. The Africans assembled wore Western clothes and some had the little beards symbolic of jazz fiends everywhere.

But jazz wasn't on their minds. In perfect English, they told an American reporter of their troubles and hopes.

"With the arrogance of the present government, which we can't even consult," said the writer, "there ultimately can be no other way but revolution. We won't settle for anything less than full equal rights."

"But remember, chaps," said the teacher, "only about three-eighths of our people know what's going on. The rest know nothing. With all our leaders in jail, there is no one to educate or lead them."

"Yes, but an underground is forming," said another man. "We will have a new organization and the day after the state of emergency is lifted, there will be more Sharpevilles, more riots, more bloodshed."

A fat little man suddenly grabbed my lapels. "I had a friend, a teacher, I knew from boyhood," he said. "He was arrested for a pass book offense. He was tough and he was brave and he wouldn't be pushed around. They took him to a prison farm where he probably objected to something—you don't object to anything in a prison farm."

"He was killed. He was beaten to death. I know because I saw the marks on his body and I buried him."

Most of the native political unrest comes from the cities. Those in the country hear little of politics. But at one Zulu reserve, I found an exception, a native chief.

"We want to be free of colonialism, we want to own our own land," he said. "We want a voice in Parliament. We don't want to throw the white man out. We want to share his leadership. But above all, we don't want violence."

The black man, especially those in the urban areas, has come far under the white man's rule. Generally, he eats better, lives better, earns more by African standards, gets more education, more medical attention. But the irony of progress, so far as the government is concerned, is that those who have advanced the most in education suffer the most from the claustrophobia of apartheid or separation of the races.

He can not use the white man's elevator or train or bus or theater or park bench or wash room or restaurant or even the counter at the post office.

He must carry a pass book of identification at all times and get it signed once a month by his employer or be arrested. He must get permission to change jobs or visit another town or, as in many cases where a couple is separated by different jobs, he must get a special permit to visit his wife for a few evening hours. He can not be out on the streets after 11 p.m. without a special permit. And for all these symbols of white man's permission he must queue up outside government offices and wait in line for hours.

The great majority of whites, both English and Africans, support total segregation. But it is the Africaners nationalist who resists any change or modification most bitterly. Many English feel they can always go home. The Africaner regards this as his only homeland.

A. Doctors have been searching for years for a way to remove kidney stones without surgery. Nothing very promising has turned up. Several things make it difficult to find a satisfactory dissolving agent for kidney stones. For one thing, the stones are not all of the same chemical composition so that what dissolves one won't touch another. Secondly, it is difficult to find a solvent or dissolving solution that is not irritating to bladder and kidney tissues. Some progress is being made but at the moment surgery is about the only way to remove stones that are too large to be passed.

CAB To Conduct Hearings on Airline Stops

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) has decided to conduct hearings in Columbus in July on a proposal to suspend air service to Marion, New Philadelphia and Zanesville.

Commerce Director John W. Bush said today that CAB Examiner Joseph L. Fitzmaurice has accepted his invitation to hold the hearings at the Ohio Department Building here July 14 through 16.

The three communities have failed to meet the CAB minimum of five passenger boardings a day. The July hearings will help decide whether Lake Central Airlines, Ohio's primary local service line, should continue to serve the three points.

Fitzmaurice also will conduct hearings at Indianapolis for the Indiana cities of Richmond, Marion and Bloomington—which are in the same situation—before making his recommendations to the board.

LOVES NORMAN
DEAR LOVES NORMAN: Quit drooling over him—and hang on to those curls. That's probably as close to Norman as you'll get until his hair grows out and he grows up. A 14-year-old boy would rather have a girl secretly hate him than publicly like him.

DEAR ABBY: We have a widowed grandmother, aged 60, who has had this man living with her for the past four years. He is now in his late thirties. She owns her own home and is very well off financially. Despite our protests she brings him to all the family gatherings. We can hardly stand him.

We've asked her to please leave this fellow home when she comes to family get-togethers, but she won't come without him. We hoped she'd get over this nonsense but it's been four years now and he is still around. If she dies, will this man have any claim on her property, holdings and insurance?

INTERESTED
DEAR INTERESTED: Evidently Grandma doesn't care what you or the neighbors think. I don't know what provisions she has made for her "property, holdings and insurance"—but her lawyer probably does. If you are interested—why don't you ask Grandma?

DEAR ABBY: Is it normal for a pretty, 35-year-old woman (who looks 25) to refuse to have any friends over? When I mention inviting a couple or two in for an evening it starts a terrible argument.

We have been married 10 years and have no children. We own a beautiful, new, ranch-style home with new modern furniture, so she doesn't have to be ashamed to invite people in. But she flatly refuses. The two of us get along fine and I have absolutely no complaints except this one. How do I get her to invite people over? Or should I just give up?

NO FRIENDS
DEAR NO FRIENDS: Perhaps your wife lacks confidence. She probably feels that she doesn't know how to entertain properly and is afraid to try. Let her know that the people who are worth entertaining won't like her less if she isn't the hostess with the mostest. Don't give up. Everybody needs friends.

"What's your problem?" Write to Abby in care of this paper. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

CAB To Conduct Hearings on Airline Stops

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) has decided to conduct hearings in Columbus in July on a proposal to suspend air service to Marion, New Philadelphia and Zanesville.

Commerce Director John W. Bush said today that CAB Examiner Joseph L. Fitzmaurice has accepted his invitation to hold the hearings at the Ohio Departments Building here July 14 through 16.

The three communities have failed to meet the CAB minimum of five passenger boardings a day. The July hearings will help decide whether Lake Central Airlines, Ohio's primary local service line, should continue to serve the three points.

Fitzmaurice also will conduct hearings at Indianapolis for the Indiana cities of Richmond, Marion and Bloomington—which are in the same situation—before making his recommendations to the board.

Baltimore's 'Baby Birds'
Playing Havoc in AL Race

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
You can call 'em the Baby Birds or the Kiddie Korps, but what those Baltimore Oriole pitchers are doing to rest of the American League these days is spelled m-u-r-d-e-r.

The five kid hurlers—Steve Barber, Chuck Estrada, Jack Fisher, Milt Pappas and Jerry Walker—all barely old enough to vote, have packed away 16 of the front-flying Birds' 25 victories.

Walker, the last to become a winner, nailed his first decision with a 3-2 victory over the New York Yankees Tuesday night. The 21-year-old right-hander had a no-hitter for six innings, then gave way for ninth-inning relief by Barber, also 21.

It was the fifth victory in six games for the Orioles and it gave them a two-game edge over Cleveland. Chicago's defending champion White Sox shook their slump and beat the second-place Indians 6-4.

Kansas City spilled Detroit 2-1 behind the three-hit pitching of Dick Hall. Boston escaped the cellar while plunking Washington in, defeating the Senators 5-1.

The Orioles beat left-hander Whitey Ford (2-3) for the first time in four decisions going back to last September. The clinching run came off reliever Ryne Duren, however, in the eighth inning on three walks and a sacrifice fly by Clint Courtney. Duren, now has given up a dozen walks and 10 runs in his last five appearances, covering just four innings.

The White Sox broke their losing string at four and reclaimed third place from New York, 3½ games behind Baltimore. A two-run homer by Gene Freese tied it 2-all in the fourth off loser Gary Bell (5-3) and Al Smith's solo homer triggered a winning, three-run sixth. Billy Pierce (4-2) was

Piersall Hits Aplenty, but Tribe Loses

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Jim Piersall, $250 poorer because of a fine, enriched his average Tuesday night with another home run, a double and a single in five times at bat.

The controversial centerfielder's homer led off Cleveland's attack against the Chicago White Sox in Comiskey Park. But two other home runs—by Chicago's Gene and Al Smith—turned the tables, giving the Sox a 6-4 victory in the finale of a three-game series.

Piersall's three hits, which included the first-inning, leadoff homer, gave him a .318 average—just behind Vic Power, who has .319. The four-bagger was Piersall's sixth of the season.

Despite the loss, the Indians remained in second place, but now they are two full games behind the Baltimore Orioles.

Facing the Tribe here tonight will be the six-place Athletics, who are seven games behind Baltimore.

Wynn Hawkins, unsuccessful in his last three starts, gets the call in the opener here. He will oppose Ray Herbert, who has beaten Cleveland once this year.

Jim Grant pitches in the finale Thursday night, while Jim Perry opens against the Detroit Tigers in Cleveland Friday night.

Sam Jones of San Francisco and Lou Burdette and Warren Spahn of Milwaukee, the National League's only 20 game winners in 1959, had identical 21-15 records.

Reds Fail To Deliver Clutch Hits

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds tried eight pitchers and three catchers in one game Tuesday night, yet oddly enough, pitching wasn't their big worry.

The Reds' trouble was clutch hitting.

Pittsburgh, leading the National League, finally jammed the bases in the 11th inning and won 4-3 on a run-scoring single by Roberto Clemente.

It ended some impotent baseball by the Reds.

In the last three innings, the Reds thrice loaded the bases. In the ninth, the two tying runs came across. In the 10th and 11th inning, the threats died.

Pirate Pitcher Wilmer Mizell, acquired from St. Louis last Friday, held the Reds in tight check until the ninth inning, then suddenly faded.

He hit Gus Bell with a pitch. Frank Robinson followed with a double and Lee Walls delivered a take over and cut off the rally after Ed Bailey's grounder scored Robinson with the run that tied it, 3-3.

Roy Face, the brilliant relief specialist who finished up for Pittsburgh, got into and out of trouble with ease in the last two innings.

Eddie Kasko, Vada Pinson and Bell led off the 10th with singles loading the bases. But Robinson grounded into a double play via home plate. Pinch hitter Jerry Lynch was passed on purpose, again filling the bases. But slumping Tony Gonzalez struck out.

Billy Martin's single, Roy McMillan's safe bunt and a pass to Pinson put three on again in the 11th. But Bell lined out to end the inning.

Cal McLish, Claude Osteen and finally Jay Hook tired their pitching hands for the Reds in the 11th, but Cincinnati's time was up.

Kuhn Takes Home Go-Kart Hardware

Cletus Kuhn Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Cletus Kuhn, 448 Stella Ave., picked up eight trophies in go-kart racing during the Memorial Day weekend.

At Hobby Holler, Lancaster, he won three Saturday night with wins in trials, consolation and feature; one Sunday with a consolation victory, and two Monday with a consolation win and a second in the feature. At CBS Speedway Sunday he won a trophy for a consolation triumph and another on Monday for a consolation win.

'Running Reesers' Familiar Sight on Deer Cinder Paths

The "Running Reesers" of Williamsport are making quite a name for themselves in this western community of Pickaway County.

There are four Reesers, in all, starting with the oldest, Max, who graduated from Deer Creek High School in 1959. The medium-height athlete ran for the first time in the spring of 1957.

He chose the distance events of the mile and half-mile. In his junior year, Max was just an average runner, but a complete change evolved in his senior year.

Max became one of central Ohio's finest milers. In addition, he won the County 440 and 880-yard runs. He placed second in the half-mile and won the mile in the Central Ohio District Class "A" Track Meet held at Ohio Wesleyan University, Delaware.

THE 19-YEAR-old Max climaxed his career with a third in the State Class "A" mile run with a brilliant time of 4:37.2. He is the first county track man to accomplish this feat. He was sixth in the half-mile.

Following Max came Robert who graduated last week. The 18-year-old track man didn't even try out for the team his freshman year because he didn't like the sport.

However, his outlook changed, to the joy of Williamsport Coach Glenn Chester. During his sophomore and junior years, Bob steadily improved, reaching his peak this spring.

In all local meets he was undefeated in both the mile and half-mile. His best mile was 4:44.4 and his half-mile record was 2:07.2.

Bob holds the county mile record with a 4:45 time, breaking the old record of 4:52.8 held by Walnut's Martin for a good number of years. Running will in the district, Bob

Inge Beams With Dempsey

New Trophy Displayed By One-Time Champ

NEW YORK (AP)—Ingemar Johansson beamed as he posed with such great former champions as Jack Dempsey and Joe Louis. The occasion was the setting up of a new heavyweight championship trophy, donated by the old Manassa Mauler.

"I first met Dempsey in 1951 when I came over here with a European amateur boxing team," said the current heavyweight king. "I met him again in this same place (Dempsey's midtown restaurant) when I was preparing for the first fight with Floyd Patterson."

"Then I met him last winter in Sweden when he was trying to help set up the rematch. He did a good job. He was very fair the whole time. Other people did things he didn't know about but he was very fair."

Dempsey had represented the interests that sold the rematch contract to the Feature Sports, Inc., the promoters of the June 20 bout at the Polo Grounds.

Johansson took a day off Tuesday. His fiancée, Birgit Lundgren, was with him. Earlier he had visited a furniture manufacturer to acquire some furnishings for his new home in Geneva, Switzerland.

"I will relax for five days before the fight," said Johansson. "I did the same thing last year. You will remember. I do it to get my body full of power."

He and his fiancée were present at a news conference to announce a new trophy to go to the winner of the June 20 fight. The winner actually will get a replica of the big bronze trophy which will remain permanently at Dempsey's.

Queen Breaks Precedent, Holds Sports Press Parley

LONDON (AP)—"I expect you go racing a great deal?" Queen Elizabeth II said to a sports writer.

"Yes, Your Majesty," replied John Hickman of the London Daily Mail, "and I see a lot of your horses."

"Ah," the Queen replied. "They're not so good this year."

And in this manner the Queen set another royal precedent—by meeting the British press in Britain.

The Queen and her husband, Prince Philip, have often met foreign newsmen, and some British journalists, abroad. But never before had they met 500 of them in London.

It happened at a reception given by Lord Astor of Hever, former chairman of the Times Publishing Co. The Queen had specially asked for the meeting.

And when the Queen and Philip broke with tradition, they turned what might have been a stiff, awkward reception into a relaxed news conference.

The Queen and her husband asked most of the questions. "I didn't recognize you without your camera," Philip told a photographer.

"Nor sir," replied the lensman, "I'm all cleaned up today."

When Philip heard the Queen talking about horses—one of her favorite subjects—he said to a newsman: "She knows it all—I know nothing."

The Epsom Derby will be run Wednesday. The Oaks—the national classic for fillies—will be held Thursday.

Millionairess Cops Lebanon Trot

LEBANON, Ohio (AP)—While the early leaders were contending among themselves, the Millionairess slipped ahead in the stretch and won the featured trot in a photo finish at Lebanon Raceway Tuesday night.

Owner-driver Forest Edwards steered the 8-year-old mare's first victory this year. The Millionairess, after a 2:08 3/5 circuit, paid $7.20.

With the track improving after recent rains, Dickie Joe set the night's fastest mile, winning the sixth race in 2:08.0.

SATURDAY, Bob competed in the state mile run. Running fifth throughout the race, he slipped and fell 10 yards from the finish line. Recovering, Reeser jogged past the finish in seventh spot.

Twin Reesers complete the quartet of Williamsport track stars. They are Sam, a junior, and Howard, a sophomore.

Sam follows the pattern set by his two older brothers. He is a mile and half-mile star, plus competing in the mile relay, which won the county meet.

He ran the 440-yard dash in the same meet, placing third. His best time in the mile is 4:50.

Brother Howard is the handicapper of the group. His collarbone has been broken six times during his short life. He runs the dashes and relay events, the only Reeser to participate in the sprints.

This quartet has shown confidence, courage and sacrifice needed by every successful track man. Shunning most outside activities, these boys concentrated on doing their best in the track field.

Coach Chester said it is applicable to work with these young men, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reeser, Route 2, Williamsport.

Yawkey Hints Team
To Leave Beantown

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Red Sox owner Tom Yawkey is so fed up with the treatment his team is getting from local sports writers he has dropped a hint he may move the team from Boston.

But multimillionaire Yawkey, in a rare news conference, said he will go along with Billy Jurges as manager of the seventh-place team. Later he qualified his remarks about moving the club.

He made a surprise appearance in the press room atop Fenway Park just before Tuesday night's Boston-Washington game. Yawkey dropped several hints he may move the team if the writers don't quit riding the club. He chided the reporters gently at first, then not so gently.

"How many of you guys think you're qualified to manage a ball club?" he demanded.

He fixed one reporter with a stare.

"Do you?"
"No, I don't think I'm qualified," the reporter answered.
"You're damn right you're not," Yawkey snapped.

"Sometimes it goes beyond the bounds of human dignity and reason," he said. "I don't put up with it. I don't have to. Just remember I've got the last word. I always have the last word. I've got an ace in the hole. And I'll use it if I have to. There's an innuendo there I think you all understand."

Later, however, Yawkey said he has no present plans to move or sell the club.

"That's for the future to decide," he said.

Earlier, he and general manager Bucky Harris released a statement spiking published reports Jurges was on his way out.

Arnold Palmer had golfer's usual difficulty in deciding which of two supposedly identical clubs was best for his use.

Which Club Best for Use?

"Mr. Morrison, which of these drivers should I use?" asked Arnold Palmer. He had two new clubs that were supposed to be exactly alike. On the scales and in appearance they showed not the slightest difference.

Yet only a little practice and play with both enabled Arnold to arrive at a preference. He wasn't sure that he had selected the better club. His doubt was well founded.

No maker of clubs, by hand or machine, ever duplicated any club exactly. Despite identical designs, materials and balances, clubs never perform the same. This often is attributed to something psychological.

Invariably a material difference can be found by checking thoroughly. I found that one of Arnold's drivers had a shaft with a soft spot in the upper section covered by the grip. This causes inaccurate striking for a strong player like Palmer.

Don Cardwell, 24, impressed Milwaukee batters with his six-inning relief pitching stint in Philadelphia's opening home game this spring.

Los Angeles To Construct Museum of Movie Highlights

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Want to see a movie being made? Visitors to Hollywood will be able to achieve that off-hand wish when the industry finally erects its movie museum.

After 50 years, the film business has concluded it needs a place to house its lore and traditions and to show its glamorous aspects to the public. Los Angeles County Supervisors agreed. Now plans are under way to build the museum on a 4½-acre site opposite Hollywood Bowl.

Heading the industry's effort is dynamic Sol Lesser, longtime producer. At 70, he admits to having retired three times. But can't resist coming back to make another movie or fight another cause. His present one is the museum.

"Did you know that 4½ million people come to Southern California every year?" he inquired.

"Do you know what most of them want to do? See a movie set. But nearly all of them go away disappointed. What do they see? The footprints at Grauman's."

Californians To Try Third Poll for Rocky

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A group of California Republicans favoring Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York as presidential nominee is considering a third opinion poll test of Vice President Richard M. Nixon's voting strength in his home state of California.

Two previous polls financed by the Rockefeller supporter group have shown Nixon trailing Democrats Sens. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts and Adlai E. Stevenson, William M. Brinton, San Francisco attorney and group spokesman, said.

The timing of the third poll test will depend on developments, said Brinton, noting that Rockefeller last week had declared himself available for a draft.

Bike Safety Check Slated For Saturday

The Circleville Business and Professional Women's Club will conduct its second annual Bicycle Safety Check from 1 until 3 p. m. Saturday in Ted Lewis Park.

All city cyclists are urged to partake of this safety check service. Headquarters for the check will be in the park's main shelter house.

A similar check was held in October, 1959. There were 56 bicycles present for the initial check. Of the 56 bikes checked, 53 needed some type of repair.

The purpose of the check is to encourage the cyclists to use better safety methods on city streets. BIPW officials say safety is not possible with faulty bicycles.

THEY SAID it is the duty of each and every parent to send or accompany bicycle owners of his household to the check.

Points to be checked are: handle grips, handle bars, warning devices lights, spokes, wheels, chains, pedals, tires and seats. Following the safety check, each bicycle will be marked with a reflective tape.

Bike owners will be given a pamphlet describing care and safe handling methods. Each owner will receive his score sheet, denoting items needing correction. Parents are urged to assist in correcting items checked.

Schools again will compete for honors for the most participants in the safety check. Atwater School won last October.

Desegregation Plan Is OK'd For Houston

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A desegregation plan for three of Houston's 177 schools was adopted by the Board of Education in a special televised meeting Monday night.

Approval of the plan by a 5-1 vote met the June 1 deadline set by U.S. Dist. Judge Ben C. Connally.

The plan calls for Supt. John McFarland to pick a senior high school to be desegregated in September 1961. At the same time, the junior high school normally feeding students to that high school and the elementary school sending students to the junior high school also will be integrated.

McFarland is to be guided in his choice by the results of next Saturday's referendum on integrating the schools. State law prohibits integration without approval of a district's voters.

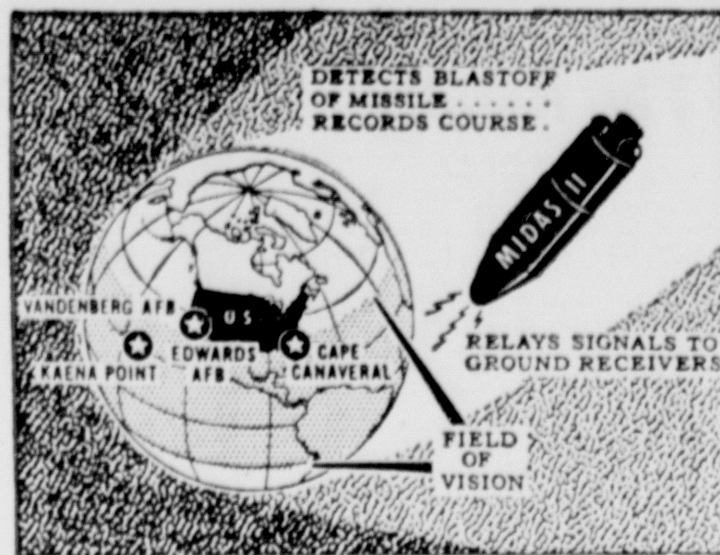

Districts which violate the law can lose state aid and its officials can be jailed.

Judge Connally could not be reached for comment on the plan. The plan says students wishing to transfer from a segregated school to an integrated school must have permission of their principal and pass academic and physical examinations.

Houston has the nation's largest segregated school system. About 25 per cent of the students are Negroes.

Sniper-Slayer's Attorneys Rap State 'Murder Weapon'

PAINESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Floyd E. Hargrove's lawyers have launched their defense of the former truck driver by asserting that the weapon presented as evidence by the state is not the weapon that actually killed Charles R. Clark of Mentor.

Before the state concluded its case Tuesday, it had contended that the .22-caliber rifle recovered Jan. 4 from a stream near Mentor was the murder weapon.

Hargrove allegedly told police he had thrown the rifle away shortly after the Christmas Eve sniper slaying of Clark, a business executive and former Sunday school teacher.

The defense opened by attacking the validity of the state's ballistics evidence and asking permission to have its own ballistics expert examine the weapon.

The trial was adjourned so that David Cowles, retired former chief of the scientific unit of the Cleveland Police Department, could go with defense attorney Louis A. Turi Jr. and Asst. Prosecutor Thomas Dean of the state crime lab at London.

Turi said Cowles wanted to test with the same equipment used by the state. Permission for the trip was granted by Judge W. S. Slocum.

Two friends and former neighbors of Hargrove testified for the defense that Hargrove visited their home in Willoughby Christmas Eve, shortly after the time Clark

Explorer Post Provides Light

The Ashville Explorer Unit provided electricity for Ashville High School commencement exercises Thursday during the breakdown of power in the area.

The unit, sponsored by the Ashville - Harrison Parent Teachers Assn., came to the rescue of its sponsor. Its electrical unit is part of the radio communication emergency squad.

It is furnished and sponsored by U. S. Army Mars. The Explorer Post, plus candlelight furnished by persons attending the commencement, provided enough light to conduct the exercises.

The power went dead as an aftermath of one of the worse storms to ever besedge the area between Ashville and Circleville.

In addition to providing emergency service, the Ashville post has regular telephone equipment operating on a network five days each week.

U.S. Senator Testifies at Presser Trial

CLEVELAND (AP)—U.S. Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark) was the leadoff witness today in the government's case against William Presser, Ohio Teamsters Union president.

Presser is charged with obstructing justice by mutilating and withholding records subpoenaed by McClellan's investigating committee. The trial opened in U.S. District Court Tuesday.

On his arrival here Tuesday night, McClellan said he was told that the government lawyers had said that he and Walter J. Sheridan, an investigator for the McClellan committee, would be called today simply to lay the groundwork for the government's case, presumably by explaining the work and purpose of the committee.

In Tuesday's session, two Akronites and 10 Cuyahoga Countyans were chosen as jury members. The opposing sides gave their opening statements to the jury.

Presser, president of Teamsters Joint Council 41, is under an indictment which charges that he partly destroyed an invoice which the government says listed the names of eight public figures who received $100 champagne buckets as Christmas presents in 1955. It is alleged that the names were torn off by Presser before being turned over to the Senate committee in 1958.

It is also charged that Presser withheld from the committee an envelope containing a notation "Christmas list," allegedly containing a list of merchandise of amounts of money written next to them.

Bike Safety Check Slated For Saturday

The Circleville Business and Professional Women's Club will conduct its second annual Bicycle Safety Check from 1 until 3 p. m. Saturday in Ted Lewis Park.

All city cyclists are urged to partake of this safety check service. Headquarters for the check will be in the park's main shelter house.

A similar check was held in October, 1959. There were 56 bicycles present for the initial check. Of the 56 bikes checked, 53 needed some type of repair.

The purpose of the check is to encourage the cyclists to use better safety methods on city streets. BIPW officials say safety is not possible with faulty bicycles.

THEY SAID it is the duty of each and every parent to send or accompany bicycle owners of his household to the check.

Points to be checked are: handle grips, handle bars, warning devices lights, spokes, wheels, chains, pedals, tires and seats. Following the safety check, each bicycle will be marked with a reflective tape.

Bike owners will be given a pamphlet describing care and safe handling methods. Each owner will receive his score sheet, denoting items needing correction. Parents are urged to assist in correcting items checked.

Schools again will compete for honors for the most participants in the safety check. Atwater School won last October.

Desegregation Plan Is OK'd For Houston

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A desegregation plan for three of Houston's 177 schools was adopted by the Board of Education in a special televised meeting Monday night.

Approval of the plan by a 5-1 vote met the June 1 deadline set by U.S. Dist. Judge Ben. C. Connally.

The plan calls for Supt. John McFarland to pick a senior high school to be desegregated in September 1961. At the same time, the junior high school normally feeding students to that high school and the elementary school sending students to the junior high school also will be integrated.

McFarland is to be guided in his choice by the results of next Saturday's referendum on integrating the schools. State law prohibits integration without approval of a district's voters.

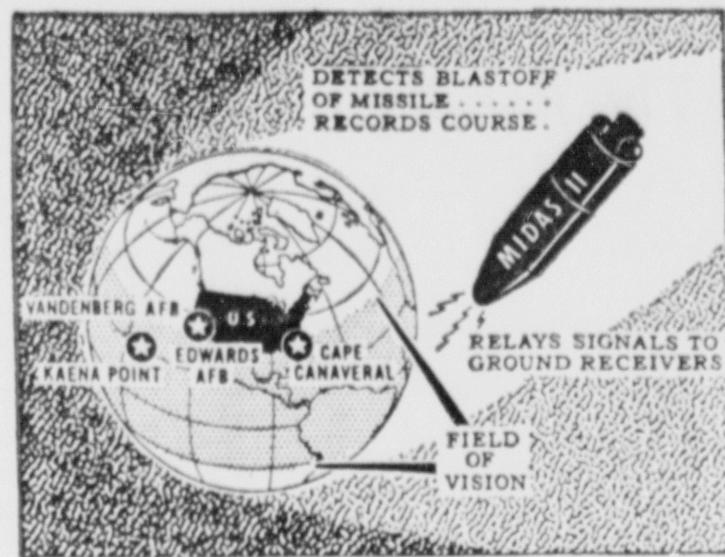

Districts which violate the law can lose state aid and its officials can be jailed.

Judge Connally could not be reached for comment on the plan. The plan says students wishing to transfer from a segregated school to an integrated school must have permission of their principal and pass academic and physical examinations.

Houston has the nation's largest segregated school system. About 25 per cent of the students are Negroes.

Sniper-Slayer's Attorneys Rap State 'Murder Weapon'

PAINESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Floyd E. Hargrove's lawyers have launched their defense of the former truck driver by asserting that the weapon presented as evidence by the state is not the weapon that actually killed Charles R. Clark of Mentor.

Before the state concluded its case Tuesday, it had contended that the 22-caliber rifle recovered Jan. 4 from a stream near Mentor was the murder weapon.

Hargrove allegedly told police he had thrown the rifle away shortly after the Christmas Eve sniper slaying of Clark, a business executive and former Sunday school teacher.

The defense opened by attacking the validity of the state's ballistics evidence and asking permission to have its own ballistics expert examine the weapon.

The trial was adjourned so that David Cowles, retired former chief of the scientific unit of the Cleveland Police Department, could go with defense attorney Louis A. Turi Jr. and Asst. Prosecutor Thomas Dean of the state crime lab at London.

Turi said Cowles wanted to test with the same equipment used by the state. Permission for the trip was granted by Judge W. S. Slocum.

Two friends and former neighbors of Hargrove testified for the defense that Hargrove visited their home in Willoughby Christmas Eve, shortly after the time Clark was reported slain in Mentor, about five miles away from their home.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Diday of Willoughby said Hargrove appeared unruffled, neat and tidy that night. They said he stayed until about 8 p.m. and then left to take Christmas presents to his five children who live with his former wife, Beverly, in Euclid, a Cleveland suburb.

The state's last witness was Carol Clark, 12-year-old daughter of the slain man. She said the shooting occurred about 6:40 p.m. Dec. 24, while she and her mother were watching her father open a can of pumpkin in their kitchen.

U.S. Senator Testifies at Presser Trial

CLEVELAND (AP)—U.S. Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) was the leadoff witness today in the government's case against William Presser, Ohio Teamsters Union president.

Presser is charged with obstructing justice by mutilating and withholding records subpoenaed by McClellan's investigating committee. The trial opened in U.S. District Court Tuesday.

On his arrival here Tuesday night, McClellan said he was told that the government lawyers had said that he and Walter J. Sheridan, an investigator for the McClellan committee, would be called today simply to lay the groundwork for the government's case, presumably by explaining the work and purpose of the committee.

In Tuesday's session, two Akronites and 10 Cuyahoga Countyans were chosen as jury members. The opposing sides gave their opening statements to the jury.

Presser, president of Teamsters Joint Council 41, is under an indictment which charges that he partly destroyed an invoice which the government says listed the names of eight public figures who received $100 champagne buckets as Christmas presents in 1955. It is alleged that the names were torn off by Presser before being turned over to the Senate committee in 1958.

It is also charged that Presser withheld from the committee an envelope containing a notation "Christmas list," allegedly containing a list of merchandise of amounts of money written next to them.
